Study GOP Committee Rule Change

Proposals for changes in the rules and regulations of the Ulster County Republican Committee to set up machinery for nominating legislators in the county and councilmanic representatives in the city, were aired at a meeting Friday night.

The meeting, called by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, chairman of the County GOP committee, was attended by members of the executive committee and Republican members of the Board of Supervisors. The group conferred at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Recent court decisions regarding the redistricting and reapportionment of the Ulster Board of Supervisors and the Kingston Common Council left the present rules and regulations obsolete, it was explained by Assemblyman Wilson.

Committees have been established within each legislative district in the county and city, and a chairman of each committee will supervise selection of candidates.

All nominations must be made before spring because the Republican county convention will be called sometime in April, it was noted at last night's meeting. At the convention nominations will be in order for county officers and legislative representatives.

Proposed changes in rules and regulations discussed at Friday's meeting, will be recommended by the Executive Committee for approval by the County Republican Committee at a meeting to be held soon.

5 Families Flee To Safety During Hyde Park Blaze

Several families fled to safety scantily clothed in sub-freezing weather early today as fire raced through a block of business establishments beneath their apartments, north of the intersection of Route 9 and Main Street, the old center of the Dutchess County community of Hyde Park.

The loss was estimated in excess of $110,000.

It was the second major fire in that township in two days. On Thursday morning firemen from several companies fought flames in icy cold weather that caused extensive damage to the well known Squires Inn on Route 9 at Hyde Park.

Alert Area Vols

Fire companies as far east as Pleasant Valley and as far south as Beacon, were dispatched today to the Hyde Park area through Mutual Aid, to cover up at Hyde Park and Roosevelt fire stations and to provide much-needed manpower to battle the blaze.

Hyde Park Fire Chief Kenneth Underwood, who was in command, said a fuel tank in the basement of the building erupted during the height of the blaze and sent roaring flames through the two-story frame structure.

Emergency crews from local fire companies administered aid to about six firefighters who were felled by smoke. Rubber coats and boots and helmets worn by the firemen were quickly coated with ice.

Freezing hoses and icy nozzles, dense smoke and falling embers from the raging fire hampered firemen to some extent.

4 Occupied

On the main floor of the building were the Hide-away Tavern, Frenchy's Radio and TV Sales and Service, and the Frank Pedatella Realty, Inc. Other stores in the building were vacant.

Five families residing in apartments on the second floor were routed from their homes in scant clothing. They were provided shelter by neighbors.

Occupants of a large motel, adjacent to the building involved in the blaze, were evacuated by firemen and authorities who were dispatched to the scene.

The fire was discovered shortly after 3:15 a. m. and the first alarm was sounded, calling out three Hyde Park fire units and fire companies from the Roosevelt fire district.

Vols Assist

Through mutual aid, fire companies were dispatched to the scene from Pleasant Valley, Fairview, Hillside and Staatsburg. Although more than 100 firemen were battling the blaze fire officials realized the need for additional manpower and equipment and a fire unit from Beacon was summoned.

Arlington Engine Company with a crew of paid and volunteer firefighters went to the scene with an aerial ladder truck.

Firemen fought the flames from all sides of the building. Because of the enormous amount of water that was used in the battle to control the flames, a call was sent out to town residents to do everything possible to conserve water so as not to reduce the pressure of water pumped from hydrants in the fire area.

GOP LUNCHEON CONCLAVE—Leaders of the Ulster County Republican organization conferred Friday afternoon at a luncheon held at the Kirkland Hotel, on important matters that were discussed last night at a meeting at Governor Clinton Hotel. Attending the luncheon were (l-r) Robert T. O'Reilly, Supervisor

Two Villages Struck by Cong Mortar Shells, 11 Are Killed

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—Viet Cong guerrillas fired mortar shells into two villages Saturday killing 11 civilians and wounding 37 persons, including one American, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The American, an adviser with the U.S. Agency for International Development, was seriously wounded in an attack shortly after noon on Ben Tre, capital of Kien Hoa Province, 50 miles south of Saigon.

Fired 50 Rounds

Nine hours earlier guerrillas had fired 50 rounds of 81mm mortar into the same village, killing three Vietnamese civilians and wounding 31 and inflicting light casualties on government troops.

Eight civilians were killed and five wounded when guerrillas fired 30 mortar rounds at a Vietnamese army compound near Hoi An, 18 miles southeast of Da Nang. The rounds missed the compound and exploded in the adjacent village.

In another incident, three women and three children were wounded by mines placed by Viet Cong in a Vietnamese military dependents' camp 14 miles northwest of Saigon.

Australian troops bypassed an enemy ambush and killed 70 Viet Cong in a six-hour battle Friday spokesman for the 1st Australian Task Force announced today.

It was the fourth straight day allied units—South Vietnamese, Koreans, Americans and Australians—have clashed with guerrillas or North Vietnamese regulars. They have claimed an overall enemy death toll exceeding 1,000.

Wide Range

This week's battles raged from the Mekong Delta to northern Quang Nam Province and today, allied troops continued hunting for their fleeing adversaries.

There was no pattern to the week's outbreak of major fighting, the heaviest so far this year. Several battles were initiated by Communists trying to overrun allied positions or blocking posts—the others started when probing allied units found the enemy and hemmed them in.

The Australians swept through the coastal swamps 47 miles southeast of Saigon today and said they had killed 70 men of the Viet Cong's veteran D445 Mobile Battalion.

The action capped these major fights that started Tuesday: South Vietnamese rangers and infantrymen killed 331 guerrillas in two days of fighting in the delta southwest of Can Tho. Korean marines killed 243 North Vietnamese regulars in (Continued on Page 5, Col. 2)

ist Registration Factors In Five Village Elections

Ulster County has no great abundance of incorporated villages, but it does boast five governmental units of this type and, to residents of these statistically outnumbered communities, political elections and all they entail are as important as anywhere else.

Voters in these five incorporated villages are preparing to go to the polls again next month, on Tuesday, March 21, and—in anticipation of the balloting—officials have set registration dates, times and places. Villages which will be holding political races in this local election year of 1967 are: New Paltz, Ellenville, Rosendale, Pine Hill and Saugerties.

Ellenville, which will be voting to fill the expiring terms of the mayor, two trustees and a police justice, has designated two days for registration. And, for the first time, registration and the subsequent voting will be held in the new Village Hall, located in the former Telephone Building, 81 North Main Street.

Clerks will be on hand to register voters on Friday, Feb. 24, from 12 noon to 5 p. m., and again on Saturday, March 4, from 4 to 8 p. m.

Ellenville, which last year elected two trustees and balloted on a special proposition involving undeveloped land, has the same number of posts up for bids this year as does Saugerties.

Saugerties Offices

Four offices are also listed under the expiring terms column in Saugerties next month. A police justice and three trustees were seated there last year and, this time around, voters will select a mayor and three trustees, all for two year terms.

Registration for the coming election in Saugerties is scheduled Saturday, March 4, between 12 noon and 9 p. m. in the Village Clerk's Office.

Up in the far northern reaches of the county, the Village of Pine Hill lists only two officials in the running this year. Voters there, in the heart of ski country, will be selecting a mayor and one trustee.

Registration day in Pine Hill will be Thursday, Feb. 23, from 2 to 5 p. m. in the Fire Hall building on Main Street.

Rosendale, like Pine Hill, will be voting on two political posts only—those of mayor and one trustee, both for two year terms.

Rosendale Date

Scene of a heated contest for a trustee's seat last year, Rosendale lists its registration date as Saturday, March 4, from 12 noon to 9 p. m. in the Village Firehouse, Main Street.

New Paltz, known throughout the area as a collegiate community, held an uncontested election for three trustees in 1966 and also found itself voting on reincorporation of the village, a move soundly defeated at the polls.

This time around, voters in the still-incorporated Village of New Paltz will go into the cloistered booths to cast their ballots for a mayor and two (Continued on Page 14, Col. 3)

Gorman: Would Not Refuse Draft to Head Ulster Dems

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

Freeman Staff Writer

"If I thought my potential candidacy would further fractionalize this county and this party (Ulster and the Democrats), I would subjugate my own desires toward this end (becoming a candidate for Ulster County Democratic chairman), if it was in the best interests of the party. But if the party felt that the need was evident and that I could be one who could possibly lead them out of fractionalism, I would be glad to assume that responsibility."

That was the answer of Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, high-ranking Kingston City Democratic leader, this week to a question posed by a newsman as to whether he felt there is a man on the horizon who could weld together the factions in the local Democratic Party (by Gorman's own count there are at least eight or more of these)—and if Gorman himself will be a candidate next September for County Democratic Chairman.

The probability is that Gorman will indeed become a candidate for the position now held by Aaron E. Klein, new corporation counsel for the City of Kingston and a former city judge. Questioned further in the same vein by the press and pointedly asked, "If you are not now an avowed candidate, are you susceptible to a draft?" his answer was guarded but more affirmative than negative.

Would a move to draft Gorman, a surgeon and veteran of two wars, be scowled upon by some Democrats as evidence of a formal split in the ranks? If he does enter the contest, will there be a floor fight this fall or will the mantle of succession be transferred in one fluid motion? These are difficult, if not impossible, questions to answer at this time.

Perhaps Klein, who has held the job for several years and must now be only too fully aware of the politics of frustration, would relinquish the scepter with his best wishes . . . remembering that it fell to him after a party rupture spelled the doom and dumping of his predecessor, William A. Kelly. Perhaps the Democratic Party, the political orphan of Ulster County, could become convinced that reorganization offers a hope for removing what has until now been immovable—Republican control and entrenchment. In addition, the rumored retirement or forced resignation of Kenneth L. Wilson as County Republican Chairman, should that resignation or retirement become a reality shortly, could be a factor.

On the other hand, despite the fact that he has assumed a new and heavy responsibility by shouldering the tremendous backlog of cases facing him as corporation counsel, Klein could well frown on any attempt to unseat him. He has strong and dedicated supporters, who ad-

Report Mao Opponents Near Full Control in Inner Mongolia Sector

TOKYO (AP)—Radio Moscow said today that after a series of bloody clashes opponents of Mao Tse-tung have seized "nearly full control" of Inner Mongolia.

The Japanese language broadcast said leaders loyal to Mao had ordered three divisions of the People's Liberation Army from Peking to support Maoist revolutionary retels.

Fail in Other Areas

The broadcast added that Maoist Red Guards had failed in efforts to take control in Shantung and Szechwan provinces and said a tense situation still persists in the Dairen-Port Arthur area on the Liaotung Peninsula. In these areas, the broadcast said, peasants have joined anti-Maoist army soldiers.

Other reports told of continuing opposition to Mao's "great cultural revolution" in Tibet and Fukien Province opposite Formosa.

Japanese newsmen reported that Chi Pen-yu, a member of Mao's purge committee, said Communist Secretary General Teng Hsiao-ping and Deputy Premier Tao Chu have "failed to bow their heads and admit their crimes." Their influence after six months of the purge was described as still "very deep-rooted."

Chi reportedly also told a discussion group that President Liu Shao-chi still refuses to admit that he opposed Mao and has "only admitted proposing a reactionary line."

All Defiant

Based on wall posters in Peking, the Japanese dispatches indicated that Liu, Teng and Tao remained defiant as recently as nine days ago. Wall posters said late last month that Tao, reportedly purged as Communist propaganda chief, had died of a heart attack but Premier Chou En-lai was later moved as denying it.

Parts of the nation appeared threatened by epidemics and food shortages. Meningitis reportedly has broken out in Canton. Maoists in Shanghai appealed to medical men this week to return to work and asked that health rules be observed.

Travelers reaching Hong Kong from Canton reported food shortages and hoarding, although food stores in areas open to foreigners were said to be well stocked. They said anti-Maoists were having success in a house-to-house campaign to persuade citizens to starve out the hands of Maoist Red Guards who had come from other cities by withholding food.

Search Dumps

One traveler said she had seen groups of Red Guards searching dumps for edible refuse.

One Japanese dispatch quoted wall posters said telephone and telegraph links to the out-

Bare Probe In Orleans Of JFK Plot

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Orleans Parish (county) district attorney's office has started an investigation into circumstances surrounding President John F. Kennedy's assassination, the States-Item said today in a copyrighted story.

The States-Item said the district attorney's office "is pouring out-of-the-ordinary sums of money into a probe of a possible assassination plot."

No Basis

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison couldn't be reached for comment. His office issued this brief statement: "There is no basis for the story. Mr. Garrison assumes the story is based on rumors. He has not seen the story."

"The possibility of a well-organized assassination plot in which New Orleans and New Orleans residents were somehow directly involved is said to be at the center of the investigation," the States-Item added.

The newspaper said Charles Ray Ward, Garrison's chief assistant, confirmed several weeks ago that an investigation was under way.

"Since the early conversation with Ward, the investigation apparently has picked up momentum," the States-Item said. Ward was unavailable for comment.

Describe Heroic Rescue in Jersey Plant Explosion

HAWTHORNE, N.J. (AP)—"Don't leave me Please don't leave me!" pleaded Sandy Kanter, a pretty 19-year-old laboratory worker pinned in the debris from a series of explosions that ripped a chemical plant.

Two workmen, despite the possibility of another explosion at any moment, freed the girl in the aftermath of the blast Friday that left at least one man known dead and 10 others missing and presumed by authorities to be buried in the ruins.

Eighteen persons were injured, two seriously.

Map Action to Halt City School Damage

Determined to institute definite measures to assure the safety of employees in the Kingston School System and to protect the school buildings in the consolidated district against thieves, vandals and burglars, administrators will soon make recommendations to the Board of Education.

Several areas of approach to the safety-protection plan were discussed at length at a recent conference. Superintendent of Schools W. Wendell Hoover and Ira M. Shaw, associate superintendent for Business Management held with top ranking law enforcement officers.

Police Officials Assist

Attending the conference arranged by school district officials because of a recent outbreak of vandalism and burglaries in the Kingston school district buildings, were Police Chief Robert F. Murphy, Sheriff William B. Martin and State Police Lieut. A. F. Van Blaricum.

Shaw said Friday that several recommendations had been discussed at the meeting with police officials, and definite steps will be taken in the immediate future in an attempt to thwart future safe burglaries and costly vandalism in the schools of the district.

Damage in Thousands

At the February meeting the Board of Education discussed a "roving patrol" to police all schools in the district during the night-time to assure the safety of employees and block plans of would-be vandals or burglars.

Thefts of safes, damage done to school buildings to the extent of thousands of dollars by vandals, and burglaries reported to authorities, prompted the decision to safeguard the school district properties and employees.

"Bugging devices" connected directly with police headquarters by a "silent" alarm, are under consideration. Such devices would be completely hidden from view of would-be burglars or vandals, and school administrators feel that the plan would be "extremely effective" against activities of criminal element.

Pledge Full Prosecution

Other recommendations are under consideration, according to Shaw, who noted that he and Dr. Hoover are prepared to make proposals to the Building Committee of the Board of Education or the full board in the immediate future.

Shaw emphasized that he and Dr. Hoover and the Board of Education will "prosecute to the fullest extent of the law" anyone apprehended committing any acts of vandalism or criminal acts on school properties.

Honor Kingston Native, GE For Education Contribution

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A gold Good Citizenship Medal was presented to Willard H. Sahloff and the General Electric Company by the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution at a reception tonight at the society's headquarters here.

Sahloff, a native of Kingston and 1926 Kingston High School graduate, is a son of Mrs. Minnie Luedtke Sahloff of 127 West Chester Street, and the late Frederick Sahloff.

A former official with Montgomery Ward, from 1940 until 1949, Sahloff was named in January 1950 general manager of GE's radio and TV Department at Syracuse. He was elected vice president in 1953 after being named general manager at Bridgeport, Conn.

He and his wife, the former Margaret Burnett reside at Old Oaks Road, Fairfield, Conn. Sahloff began his business career in newspaper work as advertising manager of Perth Amboy, N. J. Evening News and was a graduate of Rutgers University, Class of 1930.

The presentation was made by Kenneth G. Smith, President General of the society, before an audience including ambassadors and other members of the diplomatic corps, ranking officers of the armed forces, government officials, national officers and members of the society and their guests.

The citation referred to "exemplary promotion of American heritage principles" through the wide distribution of reproductions of historic documents and paintings and "continuous contribution to education through the General Electric College Bowl."

Calling attention to the self-education of Thomas A. Edison, the anniversary of whose birth occurred on Feb. 11, Sahloff, vice president and general manager of General Electric's houseware division, said in his acceptance speech, "The gap between the total amount of man's knowledge and the knowledge the average citizen employs in his everyday life is steadily widening due to the 'information explosion.'"

"Today we are in danger of accidentally surrendering our freedoms simply because man's knowledge is piling up so rapidly."

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Cantor Edward Graham of the Larchmont Temple has been called a one-man Ecumenical Movement because of his many activities in both the Jewish and Christian communities.

Possessing a magnificent voice, he learned his first Jewish sacred music at his grandfather's knee and earned his first money singing in a Jewish Orthodox synagogue. During his service in the army he was an assistant to a Southern Baptist chaplain. Also he sang for two years in a Radio City Music Hall Glee Club and toured the country with an opera company. Then he turned again to sacred music and enrolled in Hebrew Union College's School of Sacred Music.

To augment his credits for a degree he went to Iona College, a Roman Catholic institution, and took every English course offered. The life of Jonathan Swift, the great English author who was also an Anglican priest, had a profound influence on him—and was the subject of his doctoral thesis. He received his Ph.D. last June.

Now back at Iona College he teaches English as Dr. Graham. At the Larchmont Temple, he supervises music, as Cantor Graham.

He enjoys dialogue with the Catholic members of the faculty at Iona concerning the positions of their religions on many subjects. He says, "As a religious person I am happy to be an instructor where religious idealism lies behind the educational process."

Heart Patient Dies
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Mexican farmer-rancher in whom surgeons implanted an artificial heart pump four days ago died today.

Methodist Hospital administrator Ted Bowen said the patient, Arces Hector Fernandez, 36, of Veracruz, Mexico, succumbed to pneumonia at 3:45 a. m.

His progress had been described as satisfactory until Thursday, when the hospital reported the development of pneumonia and septicemia, a type of infection caused by bacteria circulating in the blood.

Fernandez received the artificial pump, or left ventricular bypass, in surgery Monday at which time his aortic heart valve was replaced.

Redeemer Pastor To Speak Sunday At Union Service

Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts and Hunter Streets will host the community Lenten service sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches Sunday 7:30 p. m.

The sermon on the topic The Devaluation of Discipleship will be preached by the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Redeemer. Assisting in the service will be the Rev. Edwin C. Coon, pastor of Fair Street Reformed Church with the Rev. Richard R. Guice as host pastor.

Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. Henry Terpening, choir director with Arthur Alton as organist. Senior choir anthems will be Thy Will Be Done by Nolte and O Lord Most Merciful by Concone. Vocal soloist will include Thera Green Hill Far Away by Gounod sung by Mrs. Robert King and I Walked Today where Jesus Walked by O'Hara, sung by Mrs. Bruce Palen.

Dr. Gaise who has completed 20 years of service in the local parish, has been active in community affairs and in the Kingston Area Council of Churches and its ecumenical concerns.

He has been a member of the Ulster County Mental Health Board since its original appointment and has completed a decade of service as a member of the board of trustees of Wagner College on Staten Island.

Hour of Sharing Goal Is Listed

U.S. Protestant churches today said they would seek to raise nearly $18 and a half million dollars through their 18th annual One Great Hour of Sharing appeal for funds to support programs of aid to the needy overseas.

A goal of $18,420,000 was announced by James MacCracken, executive director of Church World Service, which sponsors the appeal on behalf of participating Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations. Observed annually on the fourth Sunday of Lent, One Great Hour of Sharing will be marked by more than 94,000 individual congregations throughout the nation on March 5.

"The church must be present after massive catastrophes and disasters; must feed the starving; must be concerned with the refugee; and must stand with the man alone who is striving to improve his ability to care for himself and his family," MacCracken said.

"But the church in addition must be alert to a new technology which make possible assistance that was impossible a decade ago," he said. He included in this category nutrition, family planning, public health and housing construction.

The public may attend.

Singer Forfeits Bond

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A $25 cash bond posted for singer Eartha Kitt Feb. 8 has been forfeited.

Miss Kitt, then appearing in a Houston private club, was charged with failing to move on as she sought to aid a heart attack victim in the lobby of a downtown apartment building.

The bond was automatically forfeited Thursday when she did not appear to answer the charge, said Chief Corporation Court Judge J. D. Guyon.

Miss Kitt presently is appearing in Indianapolis.

'Filthy' Language Can Lead to Trouble

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: While looking for a pen in daughter's purse, I found some notes she and another girl had exchanged in class. Abby, the language was unbelievable!

I don't know where she learned such filthy words! She never talked that way around the house. She is only 15. I wonder if she uses that kind of language with boys? If she does, they surely can't respect her. What if a teacher got a hold of them?

I can't understand it. I've tried to raise her right. We go to church and say grace at meals so it can't be a lack of moral or religious training. I thought she was a nice girl. Right now I feel so lost and disappointed. I am sick inside. What should I do? HER MOTHER

DEA MOTHER: Don't do anything. All children no matter how carefully reared are dirty. Eventually are exposed to "filthy" language. To use such words makes them feel "sophisticated," grown up and a little wicked and daring, but it's only a phase which they pass thru quickly.

Believe it or not, your daughter can still be a "nice" girl. Your "shock" and disappointment are understandable. Mother, but somehow you survived hearing and reading such language in your youth. I'm sure. And so will she.

Meanwhile, without revealing your discovery, comment casually that boys feel justified in making advances to girls who use "dirty" language.

Directors Named For Bishops Fund Campaign in Area

Regional directors who will supervise the 1967 Catholic Bishops' Fund Appeal in the New York Archdiocese have been appointed by Francis Cardinal Spellman, honorary chairman.

Directors for Sullivan and Ulster Counties are Bishop James E. McNamus, CSSR, of the Presentation Church, Port Ewen, chairman; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Aloysius A. Weber, St. Peter's Church, Monticello, and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, St. Joseph's Church, Kingston, vice chairmen; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John L. Cunningham, St. Mary's and St. Andrew's Church, Ellenville; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles M. Walsh, St. Augustine's Church, Highland and the Rev. Thaddeus Clouthier, Holy Cross, Callicoon.

Campaign Goal
The campaign, with a national goal of $5,000,000 will be conducted by the 416 parishes in the Archdiocese, as elsewhere throughout the country. Feb. 26 to March 5, Catholic school children started their collection Feb. 8 and will continue for the 40 days of Lent.

Funds contributed to the appeal will be used to support the overseas aid programs of Catholic Relief Services, a non-profit, voluntary agency registered and approved by the U.S. Government. Last year the agency distributed food, clothing and medicines together with other relief supplies, weighing more than one and a half billion pounds and valued at $135 million, to 80 countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Substantial portions of this aid were concentrated in Vietnam to help 1,300,000 widows, orphans, refugees and other victims of the war there.

In addition to direct relief, Catholic Relief Services carries on social development and self-help projects in underdeveloped countries, resettles refugees and renders humanitarian aid in disasters and emergencies. Its combined programs benefit some 40 million destitute men, women and children annually.

Uptown Church To Mark Negro History Week

In keeping with Negro History Week which is observed during the week of Abraham Lincoln's birthday, the Helping Hand Club of the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church will present a program at the church sanctuary Sunday 4 p. m.

Featured on the program will be James Miller, a social worker at the Highland Training School; Eddie Parker Sr., an instructor at the same institution and Everett Hodge Sr., local businessman and president of the Ulster County Chapter NAACP.

Others who will appear on the program will be Dorothy Marable, contralto; Bessie Tyler, elocutionist; June E. Van Der Schuer, dramatic reader; J. Charles Bond, organist; Edna Marable, accompanist; LeRoy Singleton, baritone and the Helping Hand Chorus.

The public may attend.

ROBERT C. LONERGAN

Opens Offices At Pine Street

A Kingston physician, Dr. Robert C. Lonergan, has recently opened offices in the Professional Park Building, 144 Pine Street for the practice of ophthalmology—surgical and medical diseases of the eyes.

A veteran of World War II, Dr. Lonergan received a bachelor of arts degree from Duke University and doctor of medicine degree from Johns Hopkins University. His specialty training included internship and eye residency at Cook County Hospital in Chicago and post-graduate courses in the ophthalmological sciences at Colby College.

Prior to locating in Kingston, Dr. Lonergan was an associate in medical practice in Sterling, Ill., where he was a member of the board of education and active in YMCA work.

Dr. Lonergan is a member of the Ulster County Medical Society, the New York State Medical Association, the American Academy of Ophthalmology, and a diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology. He is on the staffs of Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals. Dr. and Mrs. Lonergan and their three sons reside at 102 Mountain View Avenue in Kingston.

General Electric Announces

The General Electric Company, who pioneered programmed washing eight years ago, has announced a new programmed push-button washer priced so low as to be available to millions of housewives.

With the many new fabrics, blends, fibers and finishes in today's family laundry, homemakers have been faced with a puzzling line-up of decisions every washday. Each garment seems to require a different combination of wash and rinse temperatures, washing action, fast or slow spin speed—and the homemaker is often in doubt as to which garment needs which treatment.

Now General Electric has come to the aid of the harried homemaker with the new programmed, 2-speed, Filter Flo® washer which will handle assignments ranging from a full 16-pound mixed load of heavy fabrics to a 2-pound Mini-Basket™ load of items you'd normally handwash. All the homemaker has to do is push the correct button. The washer adjusts itself automatically to a complete sequence of washing conditions as required by different fabrics and loads.

For example, one of the first Monday morning loads is often the wash-and-wear cottons: Dad's shirts, school dresses, nightwear, blouses and the like. When the button marked "wash and wear

DIS-INCENTIVE TO WORK

While others, from President Johnson down, have shied away from the idea of a minimum guaranteed income because of the cost, Wilbur J. Cohen, Undersecretary of Health, Education and Welfare, thinks the cost of $11 billion a year could be managed, if it becomes necessary. But he is unalterably opposed to the idea because cash subsistence payments to the poor might create "dis-incentives to work."

One of the terrible results of the welfare state has been the fact that by now, new generations have been born into welfare families who have known no work and have little reason to aspire to work. If that is true of those living on the welfare dole, how much more will it be true of those guaranteed an annual income whether or not they work?

The ideas for a guaranteed income that have been put forth by academicians and others include: simple cash payments, up to a specified level of income; what is called "a negative income tax," which would also involve direct cash payments calculated from a base of personal exemptions and deductions, much as the income tax is; and guarantees of employment for all, at whatever kind of work they could do, by the Government itself, if no other jobs are available.

Cohen's criticism apparently did not extend to guaranteed work for the Government as "the employer of last resort." If it becomes necessary to adopt some guaranteed income plan, requiring work for the Government, it at least inculcates the habit of work. It might inspire the worker to look elsewhere for something more remunerative and more to his liking.

53 MILLION DIPLOMAS

For the 53 million who did not graduate from high school, a 13-week program is being planned for broadcast on nationwide television to enable them to make up for lost time and qualify for a diploma.

Called the High School of the Air, the plan was announced by James J. McFadden, executive director of the Manpower Education Institute.

Instruction will be taught by top men in the field. Books will be made available through city libraries or at minimal cost. Adults will be able to follow the televised programs in science, mathematics, social studies, literature and grammar. Examinations will be taken in home states of participants.

McFadden, a former state commissioner of labor of New York City, said that high school equivalency diplomas are now widely accepted by industry, civil service commissions and local boards of licensing examiners. The growing field of employment is in the white collar field, where high school diplomas are essential. They are also a basic requirement for job advancement.

Much has been said about educational television. Here is the first practical nationwide application to upgrade the literacy of a fourth of the nation and give them a leg up on the ladder of success.

Global View

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—There is an old saying that a diplomat is an honest man who is sent abroad to lie for his country. But this view of diplomacy belongs to an era before the advent of communism and nuclear weapons.

The modern diplomat, to be effective, is required to do less lying and more thinking. In addition to languages, he should be familiar with history, politics, science and even with the dull pronouncements of Marx, Lenin and Mao Tse-tung.

Above all, the diplomat must be a dedicated man as well as an honest analyst and candid reporter.

Yet, according to Dr. Chris Argyris of Yale University, the U. S. State Department is dominated by a "social system" that makes its officials shy away from active policy debates and teaches them not to think independently—"not to make waves."

As a result, many of Foggy Bottom's diplomats "fear taking responsibility." They "play the game" in order to make a career.

Dr. Argyris, Yale's eminent professor of organizational behavior, reached these conclusions after long interviews with 91 American diplomats. His study was commissioned by the State Department as part of its effort to streamline its managerial techniques.

What Dr. Argyris reports is discouraging and disturbing. When he asked the diplomats what they would do if they disagreed with the position of a superior, the majority replied: "Be careful about disagreeing openly."

Many younger diplomats, they said, learn quickly that "to make real changes you must be a wamaker and that's dangerous. It could harm your career."

A senior diplomat is quoted as saying, "If I were to be very honest, I think that one reason I have succeeded is that I have learned not to be open, not to be candid."

To be sure, as Dr. Argyris indicated, not all American diplomats are merely time-savers. There always were—and there are today—scores of officials in the State Department for whom duty and service to the country come before a career.

This writer will always cherish the memory of Raymond Murphy who warned in 1945 that Communism was expansionist and that Stalin aimed to swallow Eastern Europe. He had the courage to do so at a time when it was fashionable in the State Department to consider Stalin as benign "Uncle Joe" and Mao Tse-tung as a kind-hearted "agrarian reformer."

But Ray Murphy was a short, red-faced Irishman who never attended a fashionable university. He was never "in" with the polished charmers who were recruited from Ivy League schools. More important, he was a "wamaker" who disturbed the State Department's social system by refusing to remain silent and play the game when his country was in danger.

Ray never made a career in the State Department. He was doomed to remain an obscure official, unlike some of his cautious colleagues. This was also true of Richard Eldridge who served for a number of years as the American labor attaché in Paris.

Dick was a tall and broad-shouldered Texan with a delightful sense of humor who probably knew more about communism in Europe especially in France, than any diplomat who ever served the State Department. Even Frenchmen considered him as one of the great scholars of the European labor movement.

But in the State Department Dick Eldridge was barely tolerated as a disturbing wamaker. His reports—honest, penetrating and detailed—were usually ignored by his superiors. They are probably still gathering dust in the archives. Even today, if printed in book form, they would make a valuable history of European radicalism.

Dick was not afraid to be open and candid where the interests of the United States were concerned. Like Ray Murphy, Norris Chippman and other dedicated American diplomats, he did not make a career in the State Department.

Your Dental Health

Dentists Often Need

Diagnostic X-Rays

The sometime complaint that "too much X-ray is used in dentistry" is usually not a valid one. Most dentists and technicians are unhappy about exposing patients to X-rays because they themselves are exposed in the taking of them. But diagnostic X-rays are a necessity in modern dentistry.

In a well-run dental practice, a patient's mouth health is a continuing responsibility for the dentist. Every patient gets his teeth cleaned two, three or four times a year; his mouth is examined thoroughly at least once a year.

But clinical examination is not enough. It's impossible to see under fillings, bridges and crowns, and it's impossible to see between tightly packed teeth. For this purpose dentists need "X-ray eyes."

Years ago dentists were handicapped because they didn't have "X-ray eyes." They determined as best they could if decay was present by color and translucency of enamel, by use of floss, by probing with sharp explorers and by subjective complaints of patients.

But this type of examination wasn't good enough. Many cavities grew to unmanageable proportions before they were discovered, and many teeth were lost as a result. Now, by one simple X-ray picture called a bitewing X-ray, inside of crowns of all upper and lower teeth on one side of the mouth can be exposed to view and examined in depth.

Tooth decay is a slow and chronic process which varies with individuals, some cavities taking years to develop; some only months. According to a patient's rate of decay, and other special problems, bitewings should be taken with some regularity, probably once a year.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

THE NEW GRAVEDIGGERS

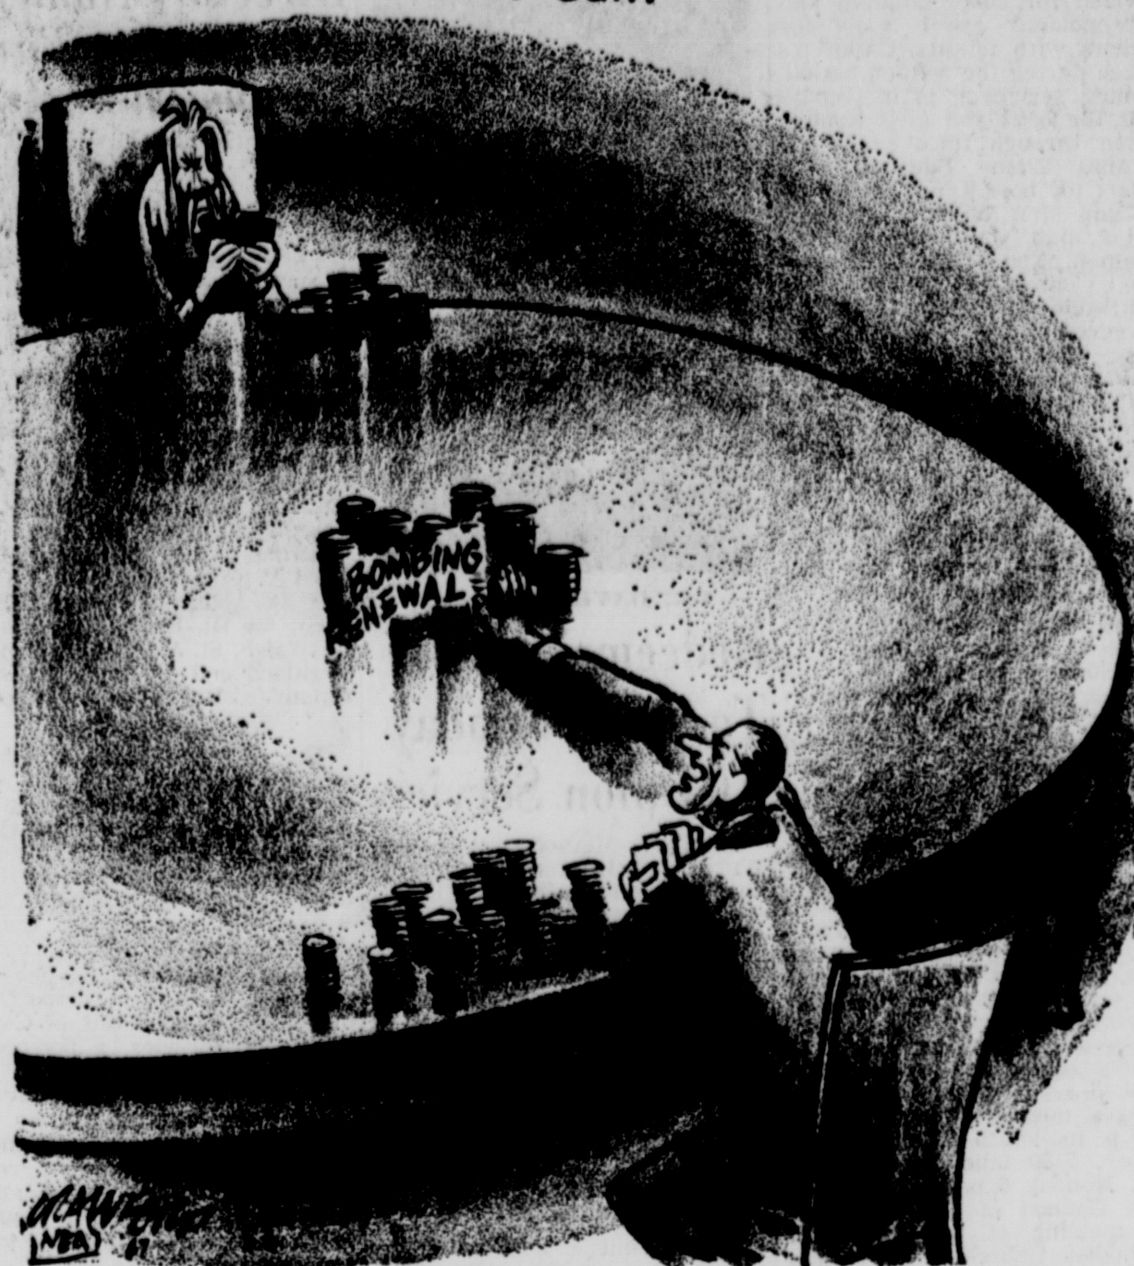

It used to be that the Soviet's leader Nikita Khrushchev, would shout, "We will bury you," and Americans quaked. Now it is the Chinese cultural revolutionists who tell Russians, "Your burial day is not far off and the Chinese will be your gravediggers."

It may not mean any more than Khrushchev's empty posturing did, but the present Soviet rulers are taking no chances. They are strengthening their borders with China and otherwise preparing for the worst. They know that a foreign diversion would unite China behind Mao Tse-tung and end the internal power struggle that is undermining the Chinese mainland.

It is doubtful that a serious war will erupt between the two Communist giants, but if one does, let this be a war we sit out. We learned in the last World War that going to the aid of the Soviet Union did not win their friendship. We have no reason to believe it would this time.

We hope no war will come. But there is no gain for us in intervening between two sets of gravediggers, each bent eventually on our burial.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The latest public opinion polls suggest that Gov. George Romney of Michigan up to now is riding high on his troubles as a candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. They show him, of course, beating both President Johnson and—for the first time—Sen. Robert Kennedy.

The most interesting aspect of this poll is its evidence that Romney, though he is more than a year older than LBJ, is outdoing him, 56-44, among voters under 35. This has to be matched up with the recent sober warning of a high-placed Democrat that his party seemed to be losing its luster with youth.

Romney obviously is judged high on his character and vigor, on his deeply religious background, his business experience and performance as a governor, but the poll figures indicate that one persistent criticism has taken hold among voters — the charge that he is green in foreign affairs.

To help change that image, his associates want him to make a major foreign speech. At present prospect, however, that may not come off until at least late March. His coming swing to half a dozen western states, including Alaska, is intended to make major "speech news" at several stops but not in the foreign field.

Having just taken aboard a Harvard Fellow, Jonathan Moore, as his foreign policy adviser-administrator, Romney is simply not ready.

Yet signs of improved grasp in this field can hardly come too soon. Some county leaders in an eastern state presently bent toward Romney are grumbling over his vagueness in foreign matters and begging state leaders not to get too tight to him. One poll showed Romney falling behind Richard Nixon among GOP voters.

That discontent, to be sure, is not founded wholly on his weak foreign affairs showing. It reflects a much wider party feeling that Romney's general organizational effort has lacked professionalism.

In a single week in January, one Michigan source heard specific complaints from Republican politicians in 11 different states. The gripes all had the same core — that Romney was not moving fast enough and was not responsive enough to offers of support.

One veteran political figure insists that alternative talk among moderates of Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois is to be read, at least at this stage, as less of a positive thing for Percy than a negative response to Romney's political operations.

As this reporter noted after the Republicans' New Orleans meeting last month, Romney forces recognize their critical need for more professionals in their midst. With their foreign policy aide chosen, the chief requirements now are for a seasoned strategist and a national secretary.

While William Scranton, former governor of Pennsylvania, would lend Romney immense prestige as a national campaign chairman, a delegate roster of the high caliber of F. Clifton White, former Goldwater lieutenant, would possibly have sharper impact at the working professional level.

White still has not "made his bet" by deciding where to throw in.

Rival pressure from the Nixon camp has to be considerable. Nixon recently has been bidding for a woman to take on a key job as researcher, and a veteran public relations type has been sitting in on some of his conferences. Plainly, his campaign to take the 1968 nomination is well under way. Friends say he will "surface soon" as the pretense of a "moralism" fades altogether.

An experienced eastern professional is quietly cautioning fellow professionals and political observers against making too much of Romney's troubles. Early fumbling and disorganization are not uncommon in presidential campaigning. Even the winning Eisenhower team in 1952 looked pitiful at times. And the newest polls underscoring Romney's strength with the electorate ought to give the critics serious pause.

The "hearts and minds" campaign is the story as the British tell it.

British, Australian and New Zealand naval and air units controlled over 3,000 miles of coastline and the air space above it.

Simultaneously ground forces, including Malaysian and Singapore elements, dominated 1,000 miles of frontier jungle in Borneo for three years against superior Indonesian guerrilla units.

This was made possible because Commonwealth troops won and held the confidence of the natives. Many in remote areas had little contact with the 20th century.

A reader gave me several items going back perhaps to the 1880's of Rondout. One is a sheet of music, called Gems from the latest operas. It was a complimentary copy given out by Sampson Bros., of Rondout. There were four advertisements on the back of the large sheet of music. The other three concerns were: Stebbins, Brodhead and Van Wagenen dry goods and carpets, of 168 Strand and 21 Ferry Street, Rondout. T. W. Wadsworth, Rondout. Artists materials, books, stationery, wall paper, shades, albums, Bibles, gold pens, manicure sets paper by the pound or box was sold at his establishment. The fourth was Estate of E. W. Knapp, of Rondout, also, who sold drugs, medicines, chemicals, fine toilet soaps, brushes, combs, perfume, and physicians' prescriptions were carefully dispensed, it stated.

I remember in later years, a headache powder company also gave out sheets of music through the drug stores, and there was a place, where the name of the drug store was printed. Hundreds of them were sent to my father's store, and I had choice of the marches, waltzes, light opera arias and popular songs of the day. Of course, in those days, every girl took piano lessons, and had to practice daily at least a half hour. Lessons were 25 cents and up. If someone did not have a piano, the child practiced at the teacher's home. Most of us did not like to practice, but we all took lessons.

Going back to Rondout in the earlier years of the 1880's, even banks tried to make promissory notes artistic. They were engraved with ships, and trains, and ladies holding scales. There were eagles and other birds, and of course fancy borders.

They made good rubber stamps in the 1880's, which they used on the back of the notes. One reads: "For collection and credit of The First Nat'l Bank of Rondout, Rondout, N. Y. Charles Bray, Cashier." On the note itself is printed The National Bank of Rondout, and Ulster County, each in its own decorated frame and border. The date Dec. 8, 1886. The "PAID" Dec. 10, 1886. The National Bank, of Rondout, N. Y. rubber stamp is as clear as it was first stamped some 80 years ago. The penmanship and ink are clear. Another bank rubber stamp is of the State of New York National Bank of Kingston, P. A. Waters, was cashier. The R. & K. Gas Light Co. also stamped one for $6.75, dated Feb. 4, 1886.

Avers Never Again

Britain Relates Efforts To Save Southeast Asia

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
LONDON (AP) — Britain is giving details of its efforts to save part of Southeast Asia from Indonesian control. In the same breath it is saying: Never again.

The review of defense policies published this week makes these points in telling how Commonwealth forces repelled the confrontation policy of President Sukarno:

"Without their (British forces) contribution to the Commonwealth effort, much of Southeast Asia might have collapsed into disorder, perhaps involving competitive intervention by other powers with the consequent risk of general war."

"Our aim is that Britain should not again have to undertake operations on this scale outside Europe. The purpose of our diplomacy is to foster developments which will enable the local peoples to live at peace without the presence of external forces."

"But, provided they are needed and welcome, the continuing presence of British forces can help in the meantime to create an environment in which local governments are able to establish the political and economic basis for peace and stability."

The Defense Ministry asserted that the campaign against confrontation "was never allowed to escalate above the level of local conflict" although it was fought out on two fronts: 1,000 miles apart, and over a vast area.

Tell The Story
This is the story as the British tell it:

paign was as critical to Commonwealth success in containing the conflict as the dangerous jungle patrols and the system of helicopter supply," says the white paper.

Summing up the white paper proclaimed: "Confrontation was constrained by the limited use of armed force very carefully limited and applied."

"We had sufficient military power in the area to deal with hostilities on a larger scale."

"Fortunately this was never needed."

It reports 150 Commonwealth dead, military and civilian, and 602 Indonesian dead.

Output totaled 170,788 cars, compared with 215,116 in the like 1966 period.

Automakers had expected the decline in sales to continue from the high 1966 rate, but they said the slide was accelerated by blizzard conditions in some sections of the country.

Declines from the 1966 early February periods by companies: General Motors 22.9 per cent, Ford Motor Co. 20.3 per cent, Chrysler Corp. 12.8 per cent, and American Motors Corp. 26.8 per cent.

The downturn in car sales began last April.

As a result, inventories in dealers' hands built up to record proportions. In an effort to bring supply into balance with sales, carmakers laid off workers and closed some assembly plants for various periods of time.

Production for the week was estimated at 149,900 cars, or 76 per cent at 149,900 cars, or 26 per cent from 199,890 a year ago.

Closed 2 Plants
Chrysler closed two of its seven U.S. car plants for the week. American Motors closed its only assembly plant for the week and Ford scheduled short weeks at half of its 16 assembly plants.

Chrysler, the No. 3 carmaker, reported that profits in 1966 fell 15.3 per cent from the 1965 level. Earnings totaled $18.2 million, or $4.45 a share, compared with $23.4 million, or $5.44 a share, in 1965.

Lynn Townsend, chairman, blamed the drop on "higher costs of material and labor, including increases in cost-of-living allowances" granted workers under contracts with the United Auto Workers Union.

The company's earnings were also reduced by higher costs to engineer and tool the extensive 1967 line of products with many new improvements and safety features," he added.

The government continued its efforts to get major oil companies to either rescind or hold the line on gasoline price increases.

The Interior Department called in top executives of the oil firms to discuss the move that would result in a one-cent-a-gallon price increase at service stations.

Still Lower
The oil companies said their boosts were necessitated by higher production costs and maintained that their prices were lower than 10 years ago.

A sparkling spot in the economic picture was the report of the Commerce Department that by easing credit conditions, it jumped 14.6 per cent during January, up for the third month.

Newly minted owned housing starts climbed to an annual rate of 1,443,000 in January, the highest level since last June's 1,285,000.

Housing was one of the soft spots in last year's otherwise booming economy. Officials blamed the slump on tight money.

The Commerce Department reported that retail sales in January remained at about the December level, reflecting continued sluggishness in a consumer demand.

The January volume of $25,315,000,000 was virtually unchanged from December's level of $25,328,000,000 but was up one per cent from the $25,023,000,000 of January 1966.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago
Feb. 18, 1947 — A guest at the Gov. Clinton captured teenage gunman, and turned him over to the police. The youth reportedly shot at Carl Janasiewicz, a new member of the Kingston police force.

A bus strike was averted in Albany by granting the drivers $53.08 in take-home pay for a 54-hour week.

Feb. 18, 1957 — Ulster County received $112,507 in per capita state aid for a quarter.

Area State Troopers were alerted to be on the lookout for the mother of an infant found dead in the western part of the state.

Morning Blaze Ruins Car, Truck At Meade Street

A glare of flames that lit Kingston's early morning skies today signalled destruction of a three-car garage, a 1965 sedan and a panel truck. All were owned by Leroy Brown, 322 Clifton Avenue, of Charles E. Brown and Son, Florists.

The vehicles were parked inside the single story structure which was "too involved" in flames to be saved by firemen. They were summoned by a telephone call at 3:03 a. m. A spokesman for the firemen said the building and its contents were "completely destroyed."

The garage was located to the rear of 326 Clifton Avenue, on Meade Street. According to Brown, it was "partially insured."

Brown told The Freeman the third bay of the garage was used to store supplies. The unheated garage did not carry electricity, he said.

Firemen — including Engine 1 and Truck 1 from Central Station and Engine 4 and the Wicks Salvage Truck were under the direction of Deputy Chief Glyn Southard. They remained on the scene until 4:30 a. m., firemen reported.

Cause of the blaze is "undetermined pending investigation," the spokesman said.

Nov. 22, 1963. While here, Oswald claimed to represent the pro-Castro Fair Play for Cuba movement.

Spent $8,000
The States-Item said the district attorney's office has spent more than $8,000 on unexplained travel and investigative expenses since last Nov. 25, most of it in connection with trips to Dallas, Houston, Miami, Washington, San Francisco and Angola, the Louisiana State Penitentiary.

The Warren Commission said its investigation of Kennedy's slaying had produced no evidence to indicate the existence of a conspiracy.

The States-Item said it had uncovered these details about the investigation here:

A man arrested here and booked as a fugitive from Texas four days after Kennedy's death was kept under surveillance for the district attorney for 24 hours last month. The man was supposed to appear before a parish grand jury, but it is not known if he did so.

Inmate Transferred
A Cuban serving nine years for burglary has been transferred to the Orleans Parish prison by the district attorney's office. This man formerly lived just a block from the last New Orleans address of Oswald and is reported to have known Oswald.

A second Cuban with a Miami address was paid money by the district attorney's office for "investigative expense" in January.

Figuerola Slain
GUATEMALA (AP) — Lt. Col. Eduardo Figuerola, deputy chief of the Guatemalan air force, was assassinated Thursday as he sat in his car waiting for his children to leave school. Authorities said an automobile drove slowly by, shots rang out and Figuerola slumped in his seat. Police blamed the terrorist National Liberation Army, "which has carried out murders, kidnappings for ransom and bombings."

Late Bulletin

Indict Newburgh Men

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. (AP) — The Orange County Grand Jury has voted first degree murder indictments against three Newburgh men accused of slaying a Balmville motel owner Jan. 30. The men, John Graham, Louis Warren and Robert Culbreth, were arrested about two weeks after 66-year-old Martin Simon was shot and killed.

The jury also voted first degree robbery and larceny indictments against the trio. In addition to second-degree assault indictments from an earlier robbery.

Two Villages . . .

three-hour battle Wednesday near Quang Ngai City on the central coast.

A blocking force of South Vietnamese armored personnel carriers and rangers killed 161 fleeing Communists the next day.

Soldiers of the 2nd Brigade, U.S. 4th Infantry Division, killed at least 128 North Vietnamese Wednesday and Thursday when the enemy attacked the division's bases near the Cambodian border and 230 miles northwest of Saigon.

U.S. Marines made an amphibious assault on the central coast in Operation Deckhouse Six Thursday and killed 62 guerrillas.

In addition to the enemy dead in these contacts, several hundred others were killed in scores of patrol actions throughout the republic.

Did Not Escape
The allies did not escape losses. One company of the U.S. 4th Division suffered heavy casualties and several others had moderate casualties. Two companies of the Korean marines had moderate casualties. The U.S. Marines, South Vietnamese and Australian troops reported light casualties.

In the air war, bad weather again curtailed missions over North Vietnam Friday with U.S. Navy and Air Force fighter-bombers flying only 41 sorties involving an estimated 120 planes.

Saugerties Man Hurt On Old Kings Highway

At 2:40 a. m. this morning, a car driven by William H. Young, 25, of RD 3, Box 185A, Saugerties, went out of control on Old Kings Highway, in the Mt. Marion section of Town of Saugerties, about three miles south of Route 212, and, before it came to a halt, had flipped over on its roof.

State trooper Carl VanWagenen, of Lake Katrine sub-station, who investigated, said Young received multiple lacerations of the face and scalp and a possible fractured hand in the accident. He was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment by Saugerties Ambulance service.

Both VanWagenen and Cliff Jones, of the ambulance service reported the Saugerties man was southbound on the highway when he failed to negotiate a curve to the right, ran off the shoulder of the road, plunged down an embankment in front of the Russell Corporation plant, crossed the driveway there, and rolled over and slid some distance on the car's roof before striking a cement block building. Spectators on the scene said the impact knocked a hole in the building about four-and-one-half foot square.

Testing Reaction in Woodstock

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman (center) discusses the future of the Democratic Party in Ulster County with Peter Grad (left), president of the Woodstock Democratic Club, and John O. Bonilla (right), Woodstock Democratic town chairman. Within the hour, he had told his audience at Woodstock Democratic Club meeting in St.

Gregory's Episcopal Church Hall in Woodstock that he would not be favorably inclined toward a movement to draft him as a candidate for Ulster County Democratic chairman. He had also attacked the Republican system locally and outlined his vision of an ideal political organization for area Democrats. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

Gorman: Would Not Refuse Draft

munity College, reapportionment, the TB Hospital, "abuse" in the county highway department, streamlining of county government by electing a county executive; a permanent office for the Democratic county organization; the assumption of obligation by the county committee to help finance the campaigns of all candidates and to teach them and advise them on the perils of the campaign trail; and a consistent program of publicity based on press releases and the employment of a full-time public relations man to keep the public informed on what the Democratic party stands for and is doing.

What is evident in all this is that Gorman has declared his pronounced intention of carrying on a cold war against the Republican Party in Ulster County. The passing months between now and November could see many changes locally because of this. By spring, the siege will have brought the Democrats to the walls of the enemy camp. By summer, more than one battle will have been fought and won by one side or the other. Fall could bring changes in leadership in the county committees that could have never-before-envisioned effects on the 1967 elections.

It will be an interesting thing to watch and, for once, the constituency will have a ringside seat. The galling thing for the GOP forces will be the fact that Gorman is not impressed by the nabobs of the Republican Party and will move into the attack with a blunt fearlessness. Such tactics will force the leadership to advance outside of the stronghold and strike back with a militancy of their own.

From where we sit, it looks like one of the most momentous years yet as far as local affairs of state are concerned and we advise — judiciously, of course, that showtimers get their front row tickets reserved early. The curtain is just going up and, from the current electricity in the air, it's going to be a whale of a circus.

Describe Heroic
down foot-long icicles that had melted during the day, nearly 300 volunteer firemen searched through the night for the missing men.

George Decker, 43, one of the workmen who helped free Miss Kanter, was at work some distance from the apparent center of the explosions in the block-square complex of the Morningstar Paisley Division of the International Latex Corp.

Decker made his way through the dust and rubble to the exit, where he saw other workers fleeing one of the three red brick, four-story buildings. Some were crying out in terror, some bleeding, some holding handkerchiefs to their faces.

Decker was told that someone was trapped on the third floor. He raced back into the flaming building with several other workers and policemen.

He found Miss Kanter pinned by a cabinet and a pile of bricks that had fallen on her leg. Flames were shooting up from the side of the building as if from a furnace fire. The flames were only four feet above the girl's head.

"Don't leave me! Please don't leave me!" she pleaded. "Don't worry," honey, we won't leave you," Decker assured her.

He told a coworker, Orlando Gomez, 32, to get a bar. "He brought back two iron bars," said Decker. "We tried to pry her out but couldn't. Then Gomez lifted the cabinet and I pulled her out."

"Then Gomez, who works with me, helped me take her out. There was so much smoke and we were coughing and she was saying, 'Which way can we go?' but we managed to find our way out."

"She wouldn't let us carry her. She insisted on walking out of there, although I don't know how she did it. We went down a back staircase as fast as we could."

Decker said he knew there were some drums in the yard that could explode at any minute but, "I just tried not to think about it."

The blast disrupted electric power in the area and rocked this community of 18,000, which is 15 miles east of New York City. Flames shot as high as 100 feet from the blazing plant as the fire raged for hours after the first explosion shortly before noon.

The cause of the explosions was not immediately known. Unofficial estimates were that damage costs would be several million dollars.

Sentence Davis

bullet. As the trooper dropped to the ground, the car took off at high speed. Although wounded, Kowalik took off after the fleeing car.

The high speed chase continued to near the Old Grand Hall at Accord where the car crashed into a fence and the two men fled.

During the chase Kowalik had notified other patrol cars and had been joined by other trooper cars. Both men fled into the woods but shortly later Brown was captured at a roadblock near the Weldy's Furniture Store at Accord while driving a car allegedly stolen at Kerhonkson.

Davis was the object of a wide search and was finally taken into custody on October 8 when he attempted to enter a house some distance from the scene of the shooting.

Brown was charged with grand larceny, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, assault, illegal possession of a firearm and possession of a stimulant drug. He pleaded guilty to the assault charge. He was represented in court by William Mulvaney, who had been assigned by the court.

Davis was indicted for attempted burglary, first degree burglary, third degree unlawful entry, petit larceny; first degree assault; illegal possession of a firearm as a felony and also possession of a stimulant drug. He pleaded guilty to the assault charge.

He was represented in court by William Mulvaney, who had been assigned by the court. Judge Mino said the two men had been on a "cross country" trip during which they had committed several offenses. He said they were wanted in the State of Washington for questioning in regard to a robbery. He said apparently Davis did not want to live in accordance with the laws of the land.

Calling the shooting of Trooper Kowalik a "vicious" crime, Judge Mino said Davis had already been given a "break" when the plea of illegal possession of a firearm had been accepted and he then imposed the maximum sentence provided under the law for the crime.

Willie Ed Patmon, New Paltz, who was indicted for shooting of a man at the Mariello farm, New Paltz, and also illegal possession of a firearm, entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of a firearm and will be sentenced on February 23 at 2 p. m. Patmon shot the man with a pistol after the victim had come into the barracks building where Patmon was flourishing a firearm. Edward Greene appeared for Patmon.

Ronald Lunan, 17, New Paltz, was arraigned on a charge of third degree burglary, unlawful entry and petit larceny. He allegedly entered a girl's room in a New Paltz State University College dorm and took $20. The act allegedly took place May 6, 1966. Wendell Harp was assigned as counsel and Lunan was remanded to jail. Lunan, after an alleged act committed himself to a State Hospital and was recently released.

George Nelson, 19, entered a plea of guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, Marshall Lipton appeared for Nelson. The sentence was postponed until February 28 in order to secure a pre-sentence probation report. Bail was continued.

Donald Castellan, who was apprehended at the Kingston Savings Bank after he had allegedly broken in, entered a plea of guilty to third degree burglary and an adjournment was taken to February 24 at 2 p. m. for sentence.

Edward Charles Smith, Kingston, one of a group who police charge took a car from the IBEW parking lot and junked it, had his case adjourned to February 28 at 2 p. m.

Clifton Bullock, charged with second and third degree assault, was represented by Edward Greene and his case was adjourned to February 24 at 2 p. m.

The case of Bruce Einar Anderson, charged with illegal possession of a firearm, was postponed for motions. He was returned to Ulster County from Elmira.

A charge of illegal possession of a narcotic, illegal possession of a narcotic drug with the intent to sell, conspiracy to sell a narcotic drug and illegal possession of a hallucinogenic drug, lodged against Charles Lawrence was announced ready for trial. Francis Martocci appears for Lawrence. This is a superseding indictment.

Judge Mino adjourned court until 10 a. m. Monday.

5 Families Flee

for more than four hours. At times flames shot as high as 40 feet or more into the air and burning embers threatened other frame buildings in the old business district of the community.

Use Pond Water
Water was pumped from a pond on the Vanderbilt Estate about a mile north of the fire. The roof of the building collapsed about two hours after the fire started in the basement. The origin of the costly blaze was not immediately determined.

Fire officials said firemen had several hours of work ahead of them, wetting down the hot rubble. State troopers from the Rhinebeck - Hyde Park station, local authorities, deputy sheriffs and fire police re-routed traffic from Route 9 through highways to Route 9G.

The Hyde Park newspaper The Townsman on Route 9 near the fire area, opened one of its offices as a first aid station.

Location Changes
Noted in County
Office Building
Rearrangement of some offices and expansion of floor space for other departments on the upper floors of the Ulster County Office Building, Main and Fair Streets, is underway, according to Joseph A. Gentile, county purchasing agent.

A section of the undeveloped area on the sixth floor of the building, has been assigned to the Welfare Department, which has main offices on the fourth floor.

Gentile said that partitions will be installed on the sixth floor to close in the area used by the Ulster County Community Action Committee, Inc. The Ulster County Civil Defense Department, presently located on the third floor has been assigned to an area on the sixth floor.

The removal of the CD department from the third floor will provide additional office space for the Veterans Service Agency and the County Planning Board, Gentile said.

Plans also are underway to provide a lounge for the six floor women employees of the county in the Fair Street building, it was noted.

Defeat Panther Bill
MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The State Senate has defeated a House-approved bill designed to save the panther from extinction in Vermont.

The last panther known to have been killed in the state was stuffed and put on exhibit in the State Historical Museum after it was slain in 1881.

Injured in Mishap
Linda Elliott, 19, of South Putt Corners Road, New Paltz, was injured in a highway mishap late Friday night on Main Street, New Paltz. She was taken to Kingston Hospital by Don's Ambulance of Rosendale.

Snake charmers sometimes sew a cobra's mouth closed so they can put on a spectacular but safe performance.

HINTS FROM

Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever been in a hurry and smeared your fresh finger-nail polish?

Now don't spread another coat of polish over the smear, that would just make it worse.

Instead, dip your polish brush in a small amount of polish remover and go over your finger-nail as if you were applying another coat of polish.

Your nail will look beautiful again and you will have no more built up polish.

Beauty Operator Josie Knight. I tried Josie's idea and it works.

Do not clean the brush and dip it in polish remover. Take your brush out of your polish and wipe it on the side of the bottle, dip it in the remover and then paint away on the smeared place.

You will have just enough polish remover on the brush to dissolve and spread the polish, but not remove it.

And thanks oodles, Josie. You're great to teach us this one.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I just could not keep my davenport and chair from sliding against the wall.

I happened to have a thin sheet of foam rubber. So I cut small pieces and placed one piece under each back leg, and sure enough, they don't scoot any more.

Mrs. M. B.

Dear Heloise:

To touch up corners of walls where paint is nicked:

I mixed a few drops of yellow food coloring with a little white water paint to match my cream walls.

I dipped my finger in the paint and ran it down the corner. A paint brush makes streaks, but not your finger.

Marcia Brown

Dear Heloise:

Anyone using both twin and full sheets will find this helpful.

I recently bought one of those linen ink marker pens and labeled all four corners on my fitted sheets, both twin and full.

Now I can see the size at a glance without opening the sheet up to find the mark.

I mark the flat sheets on the hem.

Mrs. M. Boies

Dear Heloise:

I made my husband a great variety of colored pocket handkerchiefs out of old ties. This is the way to do it:

Cut four to five inches off the widest part of the tie, open and press flat. Fold in half, with right sides together. Stitch both ends, trim seams and turn it right side out. Cut heavy plastic or lightweight cardboard to fit pocket, gather and stitch open end of material to cardboard.

Sometimes the wrong side of the tie makes the prettiest hankie.

They are not only lovely but also economical.

Steady Reader

Dear Heloise:

When I save bacon grease for reuse, I let it cool for a few minutes, then pour it into a paper cup and refrigerator.

When the cup is full and I want to use some of the fat, I slice off as much as I need with a sharp knife (cup and all). I need the cup off and there's no oil to wash.

The remainder of the cup keeps well in the refrigerator until needed.

Mrs. Van Neathery

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

It seems there are days when I disremember everything.

Mrs. W. D.

Dear Heloise:

A linen salesman gave me this good advice:

Never put a pure linen tablecloth and napkins in a clothes dryer! It makes them flimsy and causes them to lose "body."

Mrs. S. Marusen

That salesman was absolutely right.

Linen should never be over-dried and stored for a long period of time.

I was told by a linen manufacturer that linen requires a Mother — Isabel, where have you been? It's three in the morning.

Isabel — Walking, mother.

Mother — For goodness sakes! Isabel — Yes, mother.

By the time the present-day college boy succeeds in accumulating the horse-hide, the pig-skin, the coonskin and finally the sheepskin, poor father hasn't much hide left.

Perplexed wife at dinner table, to angry husband:

Mrs. Smith — Monday you liked beans; Tuesday you liked beans; Wednesday you liked beans. Now, all of a sudden on Thursday, you don't like beans.

A son at college wrote his father:

Thomas — No mon, no fun, your son.

The father answered:

Mr. Brown — How sad, too bad, your dad.

There is a Scotch doctor who had a patient who ran up a temperature of 108. The doctor put him in the cellar to heat the building.

Amy (the debutante daughter of a broker to her college boy friend) — Will you be true to me?

Albert — As true as steel.

Amy (snapped back) — Common or preferred?

Him — I hope you'll dance with me tonight.

Her — Oh, certainly. I hope you don't think I came down here merely for pleasure.

Nothing makes people go into debt like trying to keep up with people who already are.

Mamma — I baked two kinds of cookies today. Would you like to take your pick?

Bob — No, thanks. I'll use my hammer.

Lady — Are you satisfied to spend your life walking the country begging?

Hobo — No, indeed, madam, many is the time I wished I had a car.

One girl to another — Of course I had to tell her she looked like a million — and I meant every year of it!

Every road to success provides many tempting parking places.

Tax Collector — You should pay your taxes with a smile.

Pete — I would, but you insist on money.

The Gifted Child

Not all gifted children are born that way. Many get special help and encouragement from perceptive parents. Take reading, for example. Reading is the key to comprehension. And comprehension is the backbone of accomplishment.

You have a great "helper" to better reading in your own home—the daily newspaper.

Is your child too young to read? Then let him look at the pictures. If he's already reading, point out items that you think would interest him. Suggest that he read them to himself, or you might read him stories from the newspaper yourself.

Statistics show that the people who read newspapers also do well in a lot of things.

They're better educated:

Education of Head of Household	Reading Average Weekday
GRADE SCHOOL	77%
HIGH SCHOOL	90
COLLEGE OR BEYOND	93

They tend to rise to the professional, managerial levels:

Household Head's Occupation	Newspaper Households
ADMINISTRATORS	98%
HIGHER EXECUTIVES, MANAGERS	97
SEMI-PROFESSIONALS	94
SKILLED MANUAL WORKERS	90

They're more likely to earn more:

Income	Newspaper Households
UNDER $3,000	70%
$3,000—$4,999	86
$5,000—$7,499	93
$7,500—OVER	95

But best of all they're better citizens because they're more aware of local problems, government & public issues.

So next time your toddler grabs for the newspaper, be proud. Encourage him to read. It's one of the greatest gifts you can give to a child.

Teachers and School Administrators:

13th Victory Equals Record; Home Tonight

Ulster Community College Senators return to their home boards tonight with a chance to become the winningest team in the school's history.

Coach Mike Perry's eagles made their trip to Westchester Community College a successful one last night as they walloped the home side, 80-55. It was the 13th win in 21 starts for the Senators and it couldn't have been easier.

The Senators jumped to an 8-3 lead in the first session, were in front by 11 points, 37-26, at half-time and never enabled the losers to get closer than nine points in the second half.

Bill Zilliox, drawing a starting assignment before the home folks, hit for 21 points to lead the attack. Captain Brad Meyer followed with 20 and Rod Chando added a dozen. Meyer led in rebounds with 10.

In picking up the Mid-Hudson Conference verdict, Ulster shot 50 per cent from the floor, making 32 of 64 shots.

The Senators close their home season tonight against the New Paltz frosh. A win will make it 14 for the year, one more than the 13 compiled during the 1965-66 season, Perry's first at the school.

For a coach who abhors the stall in college basketball, John Wooden of the unbeaten UCLA Bruins showed them how to do it.

He had his team, No. 1 in the country in The Associated Press poll, hold the ball for nearly 10 minutes at the start of the second half enroute to a 34-25 victory over Oregon at Eugene Friday night.

Not until Lew Alcindor tapped in a rebound on a missed free throw by Mike Warren was there any scoring in the second half as the Bruins won their 24th straight game, including a carryover of four from last season.

Only 12 Points

It was the only shot Alcindor took in the entire second half and the 7-foot-1 super-sophomore finished with 12 points, his low of the season.

"It seems evident that this type of play isn't in the best interests of basketball," Wooden said several weeks ago after Southern California used a stall and almost upset the Bruins in a 40-35 overtime game.

Why, then, did he use the stall himself against the Webfoots? "We were ahead," Wooden said. "I'll never do it when we are behind and it's unlikely I'll do it in the first half. But we might do it all the time in the second half when we are ahead."

He indicated this would help emphasize the "inaction more than anything else" and perhaps influence the rules committee to put in a 24-second shooting rule like the pros have.

The UCLA stall overshadowed the third-ranked Princeton Tigers over Columbia 55-41 and the 80-53 conquest of South Carolina by the fourth-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels.

Brigham Young edged Utah 61-60, West Virginia trounced Richmond 105-83, Washington State defeated California 85-81, Southern California took Oregon State 72-63 in overtime, Arizona downed New Mexico 70-64, Washington squeezed by Stanford 85-82 and Wyoming beat Arizona State 78-72 in other games.

day, took a 5-2 lead but fell behind at 9-7 and trailed at the half 18-14 before a crowd of 10,500.

Two field goals by Nick Jones, the high scorer of the game with 14 points, pulled Oregon to within 20-18 with about eight minutes left. Steve Belko, coach of the Webfoots, considered this the turning point.

Joe Heiser's three-point play late in the game keyed Princeton to its 20th victory against one defeat.

Princeton in Showdown

The victory upped Princeton's Ivy League record to 10-0 and set up a showdown with runner-up Cornell, 9-1, at Ithaca tonight. The Big Red won their ninth in a row by wiping out a 12-point deficit to beat Penn 79-68 at home to stay on Princeton's heels.

Ed Goldstone's 31 points led Yale over Harvard 84-78 at Cambridge and Alan Fishman's jump shot in the last four seconds gave Brown a 79-77 overtime triumph over Dartmouth at Hanover in other Ivy games.

Bob Lewis, with 23, and Larry Miller, with 20, combined for 43 points to pace North Carolina over South Carolina for the Tar Heels' 10th straight ACC victory. The game was the first of a doubleheader at Charlotte. Clemson made it five in a row by beating North Carolina State 62-50 in the second game.

Ted Wierman's 31 points led Washington State over California at Berkeley. Washington also won on the road over Stanford behind 22 points by Gordy Harris.

Virginia Military upset William and Mary 81-67 at Lexington, Va., Army whipped Rutgers 77-59 at New Brunswick, N.J., American U. crushed Fairfield 94-75 at Washington and DePaul routed Aquinas 114-64 in Chicago.

Montana State edged Idaho 74-72, Gonzaga thumped Montana 102-60 and Los Angeles Loyola overcame Pepperdine 90-82 in other games.

His Boyhood Idol

Lindgren Beats Ron Clarke In Invitational Two Mile Run

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — I can't believe it, Ron Clarke was like an idol to me," declared 20-year-old distance runner from Washington State after finally beating the Australian star in a two-mile race.

"Every time I've met him, he's left me in the dust. I was real happy even to be close with two laps to go. I prefer a win over Clarke to a world record."

Lindgren's time of 8:32.6 in the Golden Gate Invitational indoor track meet Friday night was short of the world record of 8:28.8 run by Clarke on the same boards a year ago. Still the little American was 15 yards ahead at the finish as he sprinted past a tiring Clarke.

Slow First Half

Lindgren said he had hoped to run the first mile in 4:15 instead of the 4:16.8 it took him as Clarke let him lead until four

Halt Kitchen Fire

Flames caused by the igniting of grease in a deep fat fryer extensively damaged the kitchen of a 61 Merritt Avenue home owned and occupied by the Robert Stickle family late Friday. Kingston firemen said the flames spread from the appliance through a ventilation duct to the ceiling timbers, into the insulation, the room's electric wires, kitchen cabinets and plywood walls. All were damaged, along with an electric stove and ventilation fan. The alarm was received by firemen at 7:06 p. m. They used carbon dioxide and pressurized water to extinguish the blaze. Deputy Chief Glyn Southard, in charge at the fire, said heavy smoke filled the attic and "some smoke" spread throughout the one-story brick and stone building.

Named to Head Member, Fund Red Cross Drive

JOHN P. HEITZMAN

Mrs. Catherine Carlson, chairman of the Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, has announced appointment of John P. Heitzman, 33 Browning Terrace, as chairman of members and funds for 1967.

He will be in charge of conducting this year's Month of March Red Cross Fund Drive in county areas not included in the Community Chest. This includes the Towns of Denning, Gardiner, Hardenbergh, Kingston, Lloyd, Marlboro, Olive, Plattekill, Rochester, Shandaken, Shawangunk, Wawarsing, Woodstock and the West Hurley section of the Town of Hurley.

The goal is set at $7,745. A Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation employee in this city, Heitzman is a former 12th Ward alderman; past chairman of the Troop 3 Scout Committee, BSA; a member of Wiltwyck Hose Company; and a member of the local ARC chapter's board of directors. He is a Kingston High School graduate and also graduated from the Albany Business College.

Assisting Heitzman as chairman in their respective towns will be Mrs. William Conner Jr., Gardiner; Mrs. John O'Leary and Richard Gibbs, West Hurley; the Rev. Paul C. Hoyt, Olive; Mrs. John Sloan, Shawangunk; Ronald Elias, Wawarsing; and Ralph A. Perry, Woodstock.

Cold, Wet Air From West Clouds Weather Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Snow, rain, sleet and freezing temperatures dominated the nation's weather pattern today, but the Weather Bureau said severe storms were reported.

More sub-zero cold gripped northern border states from Montana to Maine. The mercury dropped to near 30 below zero in parts of North Dakota, Minnesota and Maine. The sub-zero belt also covered areas in Montana, Wyoming, South Dakota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, upper Michigan, New York State, Vermont and New Hampshire.

Light snow fell in scattered sections from the Rockies to the Midwest and in another belt across the Appalachians to New York and New Jersey. Sleet and freezing rain mixed with snow pelted interior sections of Virginia to the Carolina highlands. Rain fell south of the eastern snow line to the central Gulf Coast.

A severe ice storm hit central North Carolina Friday night, damaging power lines and darkening half of the city of Greensboro. A fallen tree west of Greensboro pulled down lines feeding power to Greensboro, disrupting airline traffic. Rain fell throughout the night.

Wind storms Friday night pounded areas in Washington, toppling power lines, shattering windows and uprooting trees. Gusts up to 65 m.p.h. swept Everett and Edmonds, north of Seattle, and part of Tacoma. The storm moved inland to Yakima where wind gusts were up to 63 m.p.h. No injuries were reported.

Saugerties To Hear Expert On Appliances

Margaret Schierberl, Associate Editor, Household Equipment, McCall's Magazine will be the guest speaker of the Woman's Club of Saugerties Thursday, Feb. 23 at 8:15 p. m. in the Dutch Arms Chapel of the Reformed Church of Saugerties.

A graduate of Mt. Mercy College, Pittsburgh, Pa., Miss Schierberl received a B.S. degree in Home Economics. Following graduation she spent several years as a Home Service Representative with a power company in Pennsylvania.

She joined McCall's in 1958 as Assistant Household Editor and was promoted to Associate Editor in 1962. She is a member of the American Home Economics Association and has served on the Recruitment and Vocational Guidance Committee of the New York Home Economists in business groups. She has been active in the Electrical Woman's Round Table and is considered a leading expert and authority on appliances to be used by the homemaker.

Miss Schierberl's appearance was arranged by the Home Department of the local club and she will be presented by Mrs. James L. Pratt Jr., chairman.

Wins Scholarship For Next 4 Years

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, local superintendent of schools, announces that he has been informed by the State Education Department, that Mark Steele of Saugerties Central School, is one of 600 winners of the 1967 special New York State scholarships provided for children of deceased or disabled members of the Armed Forces of the United States.

These special scholarships entitle the holders to $450 a year for the next four years in an approved college or university located within New York State selected by the scholarship winner.

Mark is a senior in the Saugerties High School.

Omit Scholars' Names

The following names of the four students listed below were inadvertently omitted from the Saugerties Junior High School credit and honor rolls, which appeared in this column recently.

Robert Lawless, ninth grade honor roll, and Cecilia Archer, eighth grade honor roll. Also, Dana Holmquist, eighth grade credit roll and Daniel Lamb, ninth grade credit roll.

Registration day is the same as in some other villages, and will be held Saturday, March 4, from 12 noon to 9 p. m. in the Municipal Building, 25 Plattekill Avenue.

Newcomers Affected

Voters in all five of these localities should keep in mind the fact that, with the exception of Ellenville, only one day has been set aside for registration. However, since permanent personal registration has not yet affected the incorporated villages, as it has the towns and unincorporated villages of Ulster County, new residents will be most interested in registration dates and hours. It is rarely necessary for anyone to register who has voted before in the areas listed, so long as he or she voted in the last county or village election held. Those in doubt need only call their local village clerk to check on the necessity for registering.

Cited in Accident

Police charged a German Street man with driving while intoxicated and passing a stop sign Friday evening after a two-car accident in this city. The crash tied up traffic for a time at the intersection of McEntee and Wurts Streets. Robert Hoffman, 26, of 68 German Street, was charged after information was lodged against him by Charles Webster, 44, of 229 Green Street, Port Ewen. Webster was the second car's operator. He told police the accident happened as he was attempting a left turn onto Wurts Street from McEntee. He said the Hoffman car, northbound on McEntee, disregarded the stop sign and collided with his vehicle.

Enters Guilty Plea

After a jury had been selected at the morning session of County Court on Friday, Charles Roberts, Ellenville, entered a plea of guilty to attempted third degree burglary. The charge grows out of an entrance to the Woolworth store in Ellenville. It was charged that Roberts had entered the store, taken a quantity of costume jewelry and then attempted to exit through a window. He became stuck in the window and shouted for help. Help came from a resident in an adjoining building who summoned the Ellenville police. Roberts was released and placed under arrest. Sentence was postponed to receive a probation report.

"The role of education in the preservation of our free society is obvious," he pointed out, "but its importance today is without parallel in history. To be truly effective, our nation's educational systems must serve a two-fold purpose. They must provide us with the information and knowledge we need to function as citizens. And more importantly they must also show us ways in which we can gain the wisdom to use this new knowledge, a philosophy advocated by Thomas Edison 50 years ago," Mr. Sahlhoff concluded.

Break-ins Are Unsolved

Earlier this year, police received complaints involving the theft of a portable safe from the MJM School where intruders did extensive damage; the theft of a safe from the Sophie G. Finn School, and the theft of a safe from the John F. Kennedy School. Police also investigated a complaint that extensive damage was done to an office safe at the George Washington School during an unsolved break-in.

Dr. Hoover has emphasized that never is there any sizeable amount of money left in office safes in any of the Kingston schools. Unapprehended persons who in the past have forced their way in to the school buildings and caused thousands of dollars worth of damage evidently have been disappointed with the amount of loot gathered during their criminal acts.

Ice Problem Results

From Route 28 Fire

Fire badly damaged the front end and cab of a truck reportedly owned by a local beverage company, early Friday night and kept members of the West Hurley Vols on the scene for two hours.

According to assistant chief Allen Rowe, who was in command, the truck fire was reported at 9:15 p. m. when flames of undetermined origin enveloped the truck, which was parked on Route 28 at the intersection of Hurley Mountain Road near Fred's Body Shop.

No injuries were reported and no estimate of damage was available, but Rowe said the truck was badly burned. West Hurley Vols had two trucks and a rescue unit at the scene and the fire, put out with foam, was controlled in two hours. Frigid temperatures, combined with the foam, resulted in a serious ice problem on the road and a call went out for a state sanding truck to eliminate hazardous driving conditions in the area.

Heart Sunday 19th

Work Explained Of Association

February is nationally designated Heart Month and the Ulster County Heart Fund is being carried on throughout this month with its high point, being reached during the seven-day period from Feb. 13 and continuing through Heart Sunday, Feb. 19. "When your friendly heart volunteer comes to your home, she is filling a two-fold purpose; one, to distribute heart-saving information telling how to reduce the risk of heart attack and what to do in case of a heart attack; and also, by accepting a Heart Fund donation which will be used to strike a blow at the diseases which took more than 900,000 American lives last year—54 per cent of the total number of deaths in this country. If the heart volunteer should find no one at home, she will leave a pre-addressed mail-in envelope in which a contribution may be sent conveniently to Heart Fund Headquarters, 268 Fair Street, a spokesman said.

Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Sally R. Brinrier says, "Of course, when you give a donation, one must wonder and want to know how your Heart Fund dollars are being spent. In 1966-67, Heart Fund dollars received in the following ways: $7,268, in heart research; $8,777 for public education; $4,054 for professional education; $11,703 for community service; and $3,290 for public information."

"The Mid-Hudson Heart Association has for you free educational pamphlets and brochures on every aspect of cardiovascular disease from arteriosclerosis to varicose veins for students, teachers, heart patients, physicians, nurses, and the general public. Also available is a loan library of professional and public educational films which any organization can request for a program with a professional speaker also being provided. There are also available at Heart Headquarters exhibits on loan and also teaching aids."

"Among the things that the Heart Association does for you are to train physicians, nurses and to save lives by means of closed resuscitation. They sponsor a program for rheumatic fever patients enabling them to obtain a low-cost penicillin required to prevent recurrent attacks and possible rheumatic heart disease. Free diagnostic services are provided for heart patients including blood tests, chest x-ray, ECG, and a professional consultation. An Institute for Nurses is conducted on such subjects as heart disease in children, and Coronary Care Units. Through your donations to the 1966 Heart Fund the Association was able to make a grant to a local hospital for establishing a training program for nurses who will be working in a Coronary Care Unit. Lastly, free educational programs for clubs and organizations with emphasis on risk factors of heart attack are provided," she concluded.

3 Injured on T-way

North of Catskill

Three persons were injured Friday at 3 p. m. in a collision between two cars on the New York State Thruway about three miles north of Catskill in Greene County.

State Police said one of the two cars involved apparently "changed lanes unsafely," causing one vehicle to plow into the other, with damage to both cars and occupants.

The injured included Catherine Hendricks of Stanfordsville, Pa.; Harold Hendricks of the same address; and Helen Holliday, of 30 Linden Avenue, Landsdale, N. J. All three were treated for facial cuts at Greene Memorial Hospital and released.

All of the injured were passengers in the cars involved. Drivers of the two vehicles, both uninjured, were John Holliday, 30, of Landsdale, N. J., and James Gibbo, of Schenectady.

Gibbo was issued a summons for changing lanes unsafely by Trooper P. W. Bentley, who investigated. He pleaded guilty before a Catskill justice of the peace court and paid a $10 fine.

The charges—of third degree assault—were lodged by Victoria Ector, 79 Van Buren Street, police said. Those facing the charges are Bernice Watson, 19, of 50 Van Buren Street; DeLois Watson, 28, of 25 Broadway; Daisy Price 17, of 23 Chambers Street; and Gladys James, 37, of 24 Abell Street. Their cases were adjourned until March 4 in City Court.

With 18 points, North is justified in jumping all the way to six no-trump without checking for aces. He knows that the partnership holds more than 32 high card points so that two aces can't be missing.

Of course, North might check to see if South holds four spades but this time there is no 4-4 spade fit and six no-trump is the correct final contract.

Church Women Participate in Prayer Services

World Day of Prayer services were held recently at the Marbletown Reformed Church, Stone Ridge, with women of the Episcopal Church of Christ the King, Methodist Parish of Accord, Krippliebusch and Stone Ridge and the host church participating.

The planning committee included the Revs. Stanley Rose, Ward James and Mark Bryant. Readers were the Meses. Lansing Hunt, Al Emmerring, Burton Marshall, Mac Graham and John Biston.

Greetings and explanations of the United Church Women projects were given by Mrs. Ashton Hart, a member of the official board of the Classis of Ulster and a past president of the Women's Guild.

Serving as usher were Mrs. Howard Miller and Mrs. Crosswell Sheeley. A special feature of the service was a solo, "The Lord's Prayer," sung by Mrs. Charles Benton with Mrs. Martin Kelly, organist.

The service committee of the guild with Miss Edythe Newkirk, chairman, welcomed the guests at a fellowship hour in the church dining room after the program.

"C'est La Vie"—Maurice Chevalier and Diahann Carroll blend talents as a dynamic musical duo in an hour-long Gallic-American revue for home screens. The date: Thursday, Feb. 23, as an "ABC Stage 67" presentation in its new time spot.

Once More, With Joie de Vivre---Fabulous Maurice Chevalier

By MARI YANOFSKY
PARIS

"When it was proposed to me to do a show with the young, controversial French producer, Jean Christophe Averty, whose talent I knew very well—and for a long time I had hoped that maybe one day a chance would come for me to work with him—well, I was very happy."

"Happy was pronounced 'happee,' and it was Maurice Chevalier speaking—Chevalier of the jaunty strut, the turquoise-colored twinkling eyes and the famous lower lip. Chevalier, about to be 79 years of age, and still carrying on a great flirtation and live affair with life and an international public.

Thank Heaven for older men!

"And when I knew my co-star was to be Diahann Carroll, I felt it would be good. She is very, very beautiful and a wonderful performer, you see (Chevalier has a way of interpolating the English language with the words 'you see')."

"I feel sure we are bringing something very fresh and very French, very poetic, very cute and very funny to American television," Chevalier said.

The fabulous Frenchman was describing the ABC Stage 67 presentation, "C'est la Vie," to be telecast in color Thursday, Feb. 23, 10-11 p. m. Eastern time.

We sat in front of the sea in the enormous, chalk-white studio of the old Pathe film company in that picturesque part of Paris at the foot of Montmartre. Chevalier's canny, professional eye watched every moment of Diahann Carroll's performance as she sang, with all her heart, "What the World Needs Now... is Love, Sweet Love."

"She convinces you that love would solve all the world's problems and, you know, perhaps she is right. But that's what makes her such a fine singer—she believes the lyrics when she sings them the way I believe that 'Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries.'"

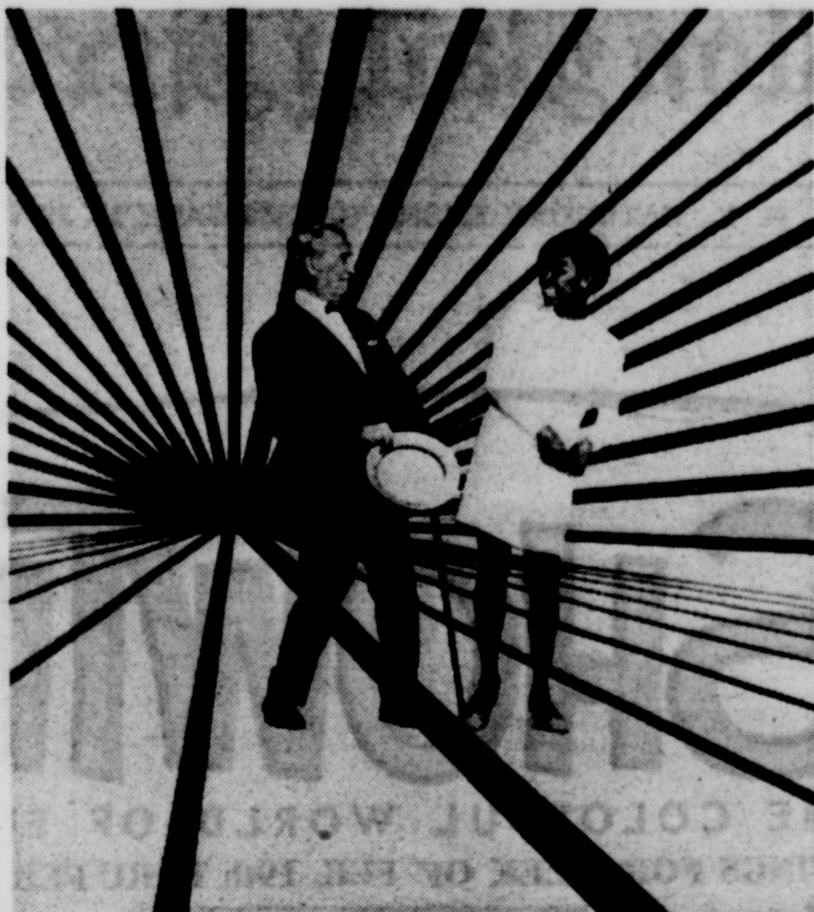

Chevalier had just finished singing that song, and just hearing him do it suddenly made you resolve not to take yourself too seriously—to laugh at yourself a little, and that somehow, if you just keep your sense of humor you'll survive.

Of course he'll do his love song of his famous lady "Louise," and the audience is in for surprises when they see the Gallic charmer cavorting in "Waitin' For the Robert E. Lee." (Producer Averty recognizes the comedian-clown in Chevalier and made the most of it.)

In another number, "Just a Bum" Chevalier abandons his familiar straw hat for the tattered rags of a sweet, old hobo with a special musical philosophy of life.

The next moment, once again his elegant, black-tie self, and with the straw hat tilted naughtily over his eye, he joins Diahann Carroll in the "Just In Time" number—a clock sequence you'll long remember.

Producer Averty is the man responsible for the imaginative, creative sets, the filled-with-color - and - light backgrounds which do so much to key the mood for the show.

MAURICE CHEVALIER & DIAHANN CARROLL are seen against the backdrop of a Jean Christophe Averty-designed set in the filmed-in-Paris ABC Special "CEST LA VIE" which airs on THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 10-11 p. m. Eastern Time.

And yet Averty never loses perspective—nor does he let the audience lose its perspective—in regard to the stars. This is why the principals in an Averty production "react" to their greatest capacity and why, they say, no one has presented them before in so compelling a fashion.

"When I knew I was to sing 'Going Out of My Head' on 'C'est la Vie,'" Diahann Carroll told me, I never, in my wildest dreams could have imagined what Averty would do with me. There I am, dressed in a long, simple white dress printed with miniature Rorschach Test patterns, in front of a revolving set of large Rorschach designs, singing my head off. The Swiss psychiatrist could never have imagined that his inkblot shapes could look so beautiful in color and end up on American television as a background for me!"

Moments later she sings the haunting "Yesterdays" as she stands, slim and straight in a sophisticated black dress, at the center of each of three gigantic hearts; one fiery red, one royal blue and the other black—all against the stunning white of the backdrop.

At another point in the fast-moving program, Chevalier romps through "Yes, Sir, That's My Baby," with a chorus of luscious French dancers in costumes of the '20s. It's delightful contrast to "I'm Glad I'm Not Young Any More," one of those philosophical bits he does well.

When the camera draws close to this amazing entertainer and he smiles with the wisdom of vintage years as he half-sings, half-talks his songs, one is impressed all over again with this man, on the verge of 80, having such a good time and making it so contagious.

Every foot will have to tap as Diahann and Maurice do special lyrics to "Personality" against a scene never before done on television with such color and simplicity—red, black and white... long lines that seem to draw the viewer into the picture. And, at the closing of the show the two of them again, singing "Walking Happy" with such joie de vivre as they dance about on great, big footsteps showing the world how to be gay!

A personal, proud note about Chevalier: If you watch very closely, you'll see in his lapel a small decoration. I asked him about it:

"The red ribbon is—Legion of Honor. The other is the Croix de Guerre—and this, the little blue button is a new decoration in France created two years ago by President de Gaulle. 'Merite Nationale'—the 'National Merit.' It was created for two old fellows of France who, they say, have become legends in their time—the fighter Carpentier, and me, Chevalier."

And he stands a little straighter as he tells you this. And he adds, "I am glad to make another show—this 'C'est La Vie' for America—because next September I will be 79, and I will be entering my 80th year..." and his voice fades off just a tiny bit.

And we can only remember the lovely line from the film, "Gigi," when, in a song, he asks, "Am I Getting Old?"

Oh, No, Mr. Chevalier, not YOU.

Questions and Answers

SWEETHEART STAYS—Why is there only one Blender left on The Lawrence Welk Show?—Mrs. W. M., Shellington, Pa.

The Blenders, a singing group, disbanded their activities. Only Greg Dixon, the soloist, remained on the Welk show. He is currently the beau of dancer Barbara Boylan, former sweetheart of her partner Bobby Burgess.

LOOK-A-LIKES—Are Merv Griffin and Mike Douglas brothers? They resemble one another so much.—Mrs. M. A. N., Spokane, Wash.

No. They are not related. But both are derived from solid Irish stock.

GROWING UP—A friend tells me that Kurt Russell, who recently was on the Walt Disney program, was 15. But I can't believe it.—C. J., Great Falls, Mont.

Your pal is right. The boy is 15. He was born March 17, 1951 in Springfield, Mass.

STATION BREAK

"Congrats, Ed—no more sustaining! A funeral home is gonna sponsor your comedy show!"

Not Really Caped Crusader

HOLLYWOOD — The story still persists in Hollywood that John Carradine once roamed its boulevards in a black cape and that under full moons he recited Shakespeare to imaginary audiences from the deserted stage of the Hollywood Bowl.

Well take it from John it didn't happen.

"A press agent did that to me," the veteran star grinned between scenes of a Green Hornet episode for ABC-TV in which he was playing the mad owner of a wax museum. It will be telecast Feb. 24.

"I had done a lot of Shakespeare before I came to Hollywood in the mid-30's and when the press agent asked a lot of biographical questions I thought I told him a lot of interesting things. Instead, he dreamed up the black cape bit and I was stuck with it."

"I've only worn a black cape twice in my whole life. The first time was as Dracula on Broadway and the second time was to the Metropolitan opera. After the opera my wife and I went to the Stork Club where a woman asked for my autograph, saying, 'I saw you in Dracula.' My words to her were: 'Thank you, madame. Same cape!'"

At 60, John Carradine is one of Hollywood's busiest actors, moving from TV to movies to stage roles and recalling that today's fast TV filming methods are not new to him. "I once appeared in 15 movies in one year and that's tougher than doing a whole season of TV shows."

Of his seven sons, only David turned out to be an actor. "It was inevitable," Carradine explains. "When David was only six he and his mother were with me on tour with the play, 'Bill of Divorcement' and he saw a half dozen performances. Before the tour ended he went around reciting practically every line I had in the play. It's too bad David got mixed up with that TV series they called Shane. I thought it was a good show but audiences were let down because it didn't have that much to do with the movie."

The recent movie remake of "Stagecoach" died at the box-office for the same reason, Carradine believes. "It was the perfect western and there was no excuse for a remake."

Carradine may not have been the colorful black-caped actor of a press agent's imagination, but he misses the flamboyancy of the late John Barrymore, with whom he had a long and close Hollywood friendship.

He recalled:

"I'll never forget the day during World War II when Barrymore telephoned the White House in Washington and said, 'This is John Barrymore. I want to speak to Winnie.' Winston Churchill was FDR's 'White House' guest and he and Barrymore spent half an hour on the phone recalling their youth. The highlight for me was when Barrymore kidded Churchill about once proposing marriage to his sister, Ethel, who turned him down."

Beverly Weds Stylist

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Actress Beverly Adams and London hair stylist Vidal Sassoon were married Thursday night in a brief civil ceremony. The marriage was the first for the 21-year-old actress, who plays the role of Dean Martin's sexy secretary in the Matt Helm movie series. She and Sassoon, 29, met last November in London when she went to his salon after finishing a movie with Jack Palance.

Sassoon, designer of a short-clipped geometric hair style which has been the rage for several years, had been married to his London receptionist, Elaine Wood.

WELCOME LISA—How may I write Eileen Fulton to welcome her back to the cast of As the World Turns? Now if her character, Lisa Hughes, would only remarry Bob Hughes. — Alice Barr, New Britaine, Conn.

Write the actress in care of the soap opera, CBS-TV, 51 West 52nd Street, New York. Miss Fulton left the show to tour with a night club act and recently returned. She told TV SCOUT it's doubtful Lisa will ever remarry Bob. "He deserves better," she said. "Lisa is too mean."

HELPFUL HAND—Did Bing Crosby start Frank Sinatra on his singing career? — Mrs. Russell Trout, St. Paul, Minn.

No, Frankie was a popular singer long before he met Bing in 1940s.

HELPFUL MOVIE—I belong to the local Alcoholics Anonymous and have heard good reports on the film "I'll Cry Tomorrow." Is it possible it could be shown on television here? — A.A. Member, Princeton, Minn.

The 1956 film is available. Check your local station's "late show" to see if it's on their schedule. The picture tells of entertainer Lillian Roth's bouts with alcohol. Susan Hayward played the part.

WALTZ TIME—Is my father kidding me when he says Doris Day used to come to his college proms? He even says he once danced with her! — John Whittington, Miami, Fla.

Believe your old man. Long before Miss Day became a famous star she used to sing with the bands of Bob Crosby, Fred Waring and Les Brown. Many of their appearances in the early 1940s were at college proms.

Musician Wants To Stay One

BY BILL BYERS

NEW YORK—Herb Alpert was late and there was speculation as to his whereabouts.

Was he holed up in a hotel room arranging another record album? Since he and his Tijuana Brass have sold 18 million of the things, it seemed unlikely he would waste a New York visit trying to make it 19.

Was he out fighting a "Lonely Bull?" Hardly. One couldn't be found in the snowy slush of New York and besides the vibrant young bandleader recently took a stab at the sport in Mexico and discovered quickly he wasn't a matador.

Was he out on a date with a glamo puss? Nope. He and wife, Sharon, are happily married and parents of Dore, 6, and Eden, 1. The first is a boy; the second a girl.

Or was he in the clouds of the Americas known as the CBS Building ironing out terms for his first television special April 24?

Finally, Alpert ended the discussion. He poked his lean, dark-haired head into one of the private dining alcoves of the rustic but plush midtown Cattleman Restaurant where a tableful of people awaited him.

"I'm sorry," he said in his best boyish manner. "I've been shopping."

And for what? A new trumpet?

"No," he said, as he slid into a chair. "I've been with my interior decorator looking at Louis XVI chairs. We're decorating our new home in Beverly Hills."

With that settled, Alpert, who is intense and shy like a jazz musician who wants to stay in the back row, began hesitantly to talk about his CBS special.

Most of it, he said, would be filmed on location. And yes he hoped there would be scenes shot in Tijuana, Mexico. Alpert admits he owes a lot to the border town besides the use of its name. It was there the Latin mariachi sound caught his ear and became an important part of his musical arrangements.

As for the future, he doesn't want to over-expose himself with weekly TV appearances. A Special now and then yes. But why make too much of a good thing?

"I'm still surprised at our success," said Alpert. "I still don't feel like a celebrity."

Since he is as handsome as any Hollywood actor he was asked if he saw himself as one.

"No. I'm a musician," he said. "For the moment, I want to stay one."

Just then his decorator popped his head in the alcove.

"Would you excuse me please?"

STILL RIDING in the movies is actress Elizabeth Taylor, whose first real acclaim came some 20 years ago when she rode a race horse in "National Velvet." At right, she plays the part of an army officer's wife who spends some time horseback riding in the film, "Reflections in a Golden Eye," currently being shot in Rome.

Webb TV Fan

Jack Webb, whose Dragnet 1967 has good early ratings, is a big TV fan. But, he says, most of the programming today is "not my cup of tea. The Dick Van Dyke show was my kind of show. I was a big Man From U.N.C.L.E. fan when the show first came on. It's still a good series, but there are so many spoofs of it that it hurts the original."

Says CBS Will Drop 'My Line'

NEW YORK (AP)—"What's My Line?" the second oldest program on television, will be dropped from the schedule of the Columbia Broadcasting System next fall, the New York Times said this week.

A spokesman for CBS said only that the schedule is still being made up.

The Times said "What's My Line?" will probably be replaced by a Western.

The panel show has been on the air since February 1950. Only the Ed Sullivan Show, which went on the air 17 months earlier, is older.

The Times said "What's My Line?" which is televised Sunday nights, lately has been losing much of its popularity.

John Daly, the moderator, and actress Arlene Francis, are the only members of the original team who are still in the show. Publisher Bennett Cerf joined the show six months after it started and is still in it.

Broadway columnist Dorothy Kilgallen, who had been on the program since it started, died Nov. 8, 1965.

FIGHT AGAINST CANCER is joined by Rebecca Alkire of Circleville, Ohio, winner of the "Miss American Teen-Ager" contest at Palisades Amusement Park, N.J. The Ohio State University freshman launches a nationwide drive in behalf of the American Cancer Society to fight cancer with a checkup and a check. She is also directing a nationwide educational campaign telling youth of the ill effects of smoking.

TV Questions And Answers

MARQUEE APPEAL — Does Ben Gazzara use his own name? —Mrs. Irene Luety, Parkville, Minn.

Yes, The native New Yorker, of Italian heritage, was encouraged many times in his early career to change his name but wouldn't. Trained by the Actors' Studio, he made his Broadway debut as Jacko de Paris in "End as a Man." His first film was "The Strange One." His first TV series: Arrest and Trial. Ben has played Paul Bryan on Run For Your Life for two seasons. The 37-year-old actor is married to actress Janice Rule and they have two young daughters.

RED'S DANCERS—My favorite comedian is Red Skelton. But I was wondering who are the wonderful dancers on his show? —L. W. S., Portland, Ore.

They call themselves The Tom Hansen Dancers. They are named after the CBS-TV show's choreographer.

***

MISSING VALET — What's happened to Sebastian Cabot on Family Affair?—Viewer, Champaign, Ill.

The bearded, rotund actor who plays French, the valet, was hospitalized after an ulcer attack. He missed several episodes but is back on the set again. During his absence John Williams took his place. Cabot will be back in his old role early in March.

ONE YOUNG WOMAN, at least, thinks there's fallibility in TV's "Dynamic Duo" of Batman and Robin. Bonnie Ward, 20, has divorced her actor-husband, Burt, who plays the role of Robin in the series. (NEA Telephoto)

Alan Burke In Daily Debut

A daily edition of "The Alan Burke Show" will be presented over WNEW-TV (Channel 5) weeknights from 10:30 to 11:10 P. M. starting March 13.

The new daily program will be televised live and in color, with a studio audience participating in discussions between the bearded Mr. Burke and his topical guests.

The Saturday "Alan Burke Show," which celebrates its first anniversary next month, will continue to be seen from 11:00 P. M. to 1:00 A. M.

Mr. Burke's weekly 2-hour show is now seen in both Los Angeles and New York, and has become one of the most heavily viewed attractions on late-night TV in both cities.

The new 40-minute program will be seen in New York only, and debuts on the same night that WNEW-TV launches the area's first prime-time color news series.

Channel 5's post-10:00 P. M., Monday-Friday line-up starting March 13 is as follows:

10-10:30 P. M. 10 o'clock News with Bill Jorgensen.

10:30-11:10 P. M. The Alan Burke Show. The Merv Griffin Show" will continue to be at 11:10 P. M.

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED WANT AD . . .

1. IT'S always best to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location and/or town or city in which it is located.
2. BE clear. Readers respond more quickly and favorably.
3. MAKE it easy for the reader-prospect to reach you, when given complete or definite information. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.
4. THE greatest reader attention can be secured by your advertisement by using consecutive insertions. Play safe—a six-day order is best and the rate is lower! You can stop your ad when you get results and the charge will be adjusted to the appropriate rate.
5. PLACE yourself in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Want Ad.
6. WANT ads that fail to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

Yes, it's simple to place your classified ad in the —

RIP VAN WINKLE AND THE KAATSKILL MTS.

OLD RIP fleeing the sharp tongue of DAME VAN WINKLE, went hunting with his DOG WOLF. He happened upon some Dwarfs from HENRY HUDSON'S CREW of the ship HALFMOON. Together they enjoyed a game of NINE PINS, on the BOWLING GREEN. After many trips to the flagon to quench his thirst, rest called our hero and he laid down to a long sleep. When he AWOKE he had a RUSTY GUN and a long white beard, for he had slept twenty years — RIP'S AWAKENING created a desire to visit the VILLAGE INN to enjoy a VAN WINKLE PLATTER and his favorite SCHNAPPS.

Leo Carroll One Man Double Bill

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — As the co-star of two television shows, Leo G. Carroll is the home screen's only one man double bill. He is Mr. Waverly, the soft voiced, unperturbed boss of U.N.C.L.E. on both of NBC-TV's spy thrillers, The Man From ... and The Girl From ... Both shows are filmed at MGM and the thought of this brings a fast twinkle to the veteran actor's eyes. "The first time I was here," he laughed, "I felt like burning the place down."

The first time Leo G. Carroll saw the studio was 32 years ago when he was imported from Broadway to play his first movie role with Joan Crawford in "Sadie McKee." As he tells the story: "I was starring at the time on Broadway in 'The Green Bay Tree' and some MGM producer — I've forgotten his name — insisted I would be perfect for the role of Mr. Somebody-or-other in the Crawford film. I was quite impressed — not only by the salary but by the fact that the studio could get me out of my run of the play contract. "So I came to Hollywood, reported to the studio and then made a horrifying discovery. The role of the Mr. Somebody-or-other in the film was a BUTLER. Well, I felt like burning the place down. In those days motion pictures created such a large image that I was afraid of being typed as a butler for the rest of my career." Since then Carroll has appeared in over 100 motion pictures and two other TV series (Topper and Going My Way) and has yet to play another butler. "Happily," he says, "I've been able to play all kinds of character parts (including a master spy in the 1945 movie, 'The House On 92nd Street') and I'm grateful. I owe movies and TV a great deal, they owe me nothing." When he was asked to play Mr. Waverly in the second U.N.C.L.E. series MGM doubled his salary and his reaction, he smiles, brought back a long-ago memory about an old actor he once knew in his native London. The actor suddenly had his salary doubled by a British producer. When friends asked what he thought of his good fortune, the old pro replied, "I just kept my feet." That, reported Carroll, was just what he did — "I kept my feet." After 55 years of acting Carroll sees no great change in acting — "naturalism was our goal even then" — but he does see great changes in play and screen writing. "I think," he says, "there's too much symbolism these days. You see a play or a movie and you leave asking yourself, 'What did they mean by that?' Today's writing may be intellectual but I don't think it's intelligent."

TV Shorts

It looks as if the end is in sight for the Fugitive. All reports from Hollywood indicate that this is the last season for the series. The reports also say a two-part script will end the show with David Janssen finally cornering the one-armed killer and clearing his name.

All Walt Disney fans are urged to buy a new record album on the Buena Vista label called "The Music of Walt Disney." It consists of pieces of sound tracks from Disney films and there are a lot of nostalgic moments for Disneyphiles. Proceeds from the sale of the album go to the California Institute of the Arts, the late showman's favorite project.

Ever wonder why Robert Colbert and James Darren of Time Tunnel, always appear in those same two outfits — the green slacks and sweater for Darren and the 1910 suit for Colbert — they wore in the pilot? Colbert supplied TV Scout with the answer. When they filmed the pilot they did the "vortex" scenes of the two of them whirling through space. They were expensive scenes, with stuntmen and special effects. If the two series stars changed clothes, the scene would have to be re-shot each week. And no series budget can stand that. So they are stuck with the outfits they wore in the pilot.

Katharine Ross A Real Star

HOLLYWOOD — Time may be running out for British actors who have been giving their American counterparts fits by bragging about their "experience in repertory, old duck."

It may come as a shock to the Julie Christies and Michael Caines, but now television has a Yankee Doodle star who came out of American repertory. She can match Shakespeare, Ibsen and Chekhov with just about anybody around who hails from England.

She's Katharine Ross, the green-eyed, auburn-haired Los Angeles-born feminine star of Universal's "The Longest Hundred Miles" recently seen on NBC-TV's World Premiere.

The plum role came to her after appearances in scores of other TV shows including The Virginian, Wagon Train, Chrysler Theatre and Ben Casey.

Before TV, she played great classical roles for three years as a member of the now defunct Theater Workshop in San Francisco, where she spent most of her life and during which she became interested in acting at nearby Santa Rosa College.

Katharine wouldn't be at all surprised if most of the British repertory stars don't look down their noses at television.

She confesses that she did. "I was a real snob. I wasn't a bit over-awed about what is really — though I didn't know it at the time — an awesome business. Maybe it's a good thing I had that snobism. It gave me a certain confidence and it helped me get through my first acting role until I finally understood the power of the camera."

She isn't sure whether there's a real cultural explosion going on in the U. S. but she insists that there are enough repertory companies scattered around to give any young actor the kind of dramatic know how learned by their British cousins in Hamlet and Ophelia.

"There are more permanent stage companies, resident companies at universities and professional drama groups in our country than ever before. You don't have to get your experience on Broadway or in summer stock. It may not be exactly like British repertory, but it's comfortably close."

Between TV acting, Katharine has appeared in several movies including the just completed "Games," a Universal release in which she's co-starred with Simone Signoret and James Caan.

About the role she laughs: "I go raving mad, as mad as Bette Davis ever did in front of the cameras. It was delightful."

Expect Networks Will Drop 20 or More Offerings

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First moves in network television's annual program maneuvers have been made. In what the show business journal "Variety" calls a $300 million chess game it appears that more than 20 current programs will be dropped at season's end, while another 10 or so are in precarious situations.

Many on Last Legs

Each network, preparing a schedule of programs for next September insists that its plans are still incomplete, but because they all deal with studios, sponsors, advertising agencies and independent show packagers, their walls of silence are as thin as tissue paper.

If the consensus is correct a lot of old programs are now on their last legs. Among those for which little hope is held are such long-playing favorites as 17-year-old "What's My Line?", 14-year-old "I've Got a Secret," 11-year-old "To Tell the Truth" — as an evening show — and 7-year-old "Candid Camera," all on CBS.

Other ailing programs not expected back include ABC's "Combat," NBC's "Flipper," "Laredo" and "Please Don't Eat the Daisies."

Programs starting this season but not expected to see another include ABC's "The Monroes," "The Green Hornet," "The Phyllis Diller Show" and "Rango."

NBC's "Girl From U.N.C.L.E.," "Hav Landlord," "The Road West" and "T.H.E. Cat" are considered to be out of the new schedule.

CBS's "Pistols 'N' Petticoats" will certainly not return, nor in all probability "It's About Time" or "Coliseum."

Neither "Captain Nice" on NBC nor "Mr. Terrific" on CBS, seem to have won another season.

Kaye Retiring

CBS's Danny Kaye has formally announced his retirement from weekly television, and NBC has let it be known that the Bob Hope Wednesday night theatre will wind up this spring although the comedian will continue with his popular comedy specials next season as usual.

Andy Williams wants — and will probably get — occasional specials instead of his weekly NBC series. ABC's "Batman" will be shrunk from two to one half-hour weekly show.

All of these programs have done poorly in the national Nielsen ratings.

Recommended weekend viewing:

Sunday—"Losers Weepers," NBC, 4-5 p.m. EST, original drama about a Watts family, premiere of "Experiment in Television" series; "The Scorpio Letters," ABC, 9-11, premiere of a movie-made for TV, about an international blackmail plot, with Alex Cord.

PREVIOUS EMPLOYMENT—Didn't Nancy Kulp play a secretary on the old Ann Sothern Show? — Mrs. R. D., Wichita, Kan.

No. But she did play one on the old Bob Cummings Show.

STATION BREAK

"And how do we get them so small? Well, if you promise not to tell... Oh, Chief Umgowli!"

"That's what I like about fishing... a chance to get away from it all!"

TV Scout Reports

There is still no local television in Nassau, the enchanting paradise in the Bahamas. The TV they have comes from Miami, and so is the TV we all see.

But there is a local radio station, and it has some amusing commercials. One, for a store which sells men's clothes, is a dialogue between two British-accented men. One tells the other he has figured out what is wrong with his golf. "You don't look right. You shouldn't wear blue jeans and tennis shoes."

"Would it help my game if I dressed right?" the second one asks. Whereupon there is the commercial message. And the second one says he thought his golf game was off "because I was using the wrong size racket."

Another commercial, for a brand of work clothes, has two very proper Britishers discussing Cecil, who did a terrible thing. He actually bought work clothes, and liked them so much he did the unspeakable: he went to work.

Richard Conte's 80-year-old father composes music. A customer in the father's barber shop in New Jersey, a 67-year-old Board of Health employee, has written the words to a Conte tune. It's called "I Don't Want You Any More."

"I can't remember all the words," Conte said, "but one verse says 'I took you to the movies and when you began to snore — I don't want you any more.' Another one went something like this: 'I took you to the seashore and in your bikini I saw what a girdle could hide — I don't want you any more!'"

If all the contractual details can be worked out, there is a plan to star Dick Van Dyke and Jackie Gleason in a movie with Gleason playing Oliver Hardy and Van Dyke as Stan Laurel.

A villain in an upcoming episode of Get Smart is a builder named Frank Lloyd Joshua.

Ralph Mayher, chief cameraman for the ABC-TV documentary Ivan Ivanovich, set for Feb. 27, came back from filming the show in Russia with a huge fish story.

Mayher says one of the Soviet technicians borrowed an ABC car to go to market to buy his favorite fish. Hours later he returned to the site where the crew was filming. He had gone 200 miles—to a fish market near the Black Sea—and had loaded the car with 150 pounds of fish.

It is to be hoped the man's wife had a more modern freezer to preserve the fish than a Russian winter.
